By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's top disarmament adviser goes to the White House today for final instructions on a new round of talks with the Soviet Union about setting up a broad-scale disarmament conference later this summer.

John J. McCloy, who is due in the Soviet capital for talks opening next Monday, was scheduled to meet with Kennedy at noon. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and McGeorge Bundy, special assistant to the President for security affairs, were to take part in the meeting.

Eichmann Calls Death Orders Only Loyalty

JERUSALEM (AP)—Adolf Eichmann, clinging grimly to his "honor" as an SS officer, refused today to admit that any Nazi who killed Jews was a criminal.

The former Gestapo colonel would only concede that the slaughter of six million Jews he is charged with helping to administer was "heinous, hideous."

Israel Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner cracked Eichmann's aplomb again after four days of blistering cross-examination. He extracted a flood of justifications on how a man could follow Hitler's murderous orders and still live with himself. In sum, Eichmann's explanation was that no matter how horrible, orders had to be followed because of the SS oaths of loyalty.

BENJAMIN SCHECTER
Active Republican Seeks Nomination As Council Head

As an active party member for 15 years, Benjamin Schecter of 199 Downs Street, officially announced his candidacy today for the office of alderman-at-large on the Republican ticket this fall.

In making the announcement, Schecter disclosed his candidacy for the No. 2 spot on the GOP city ticket is being actively supported by a large group of party members and independent voters who feel that he has the long and valuable experience in government and civic affairs to qualify him for that post.

Two Seek Mayor's Post
Schecter said today he is seeking the support of the delegates to the Republican convention, scheduled for Monday night, July 24.

Two candidates to date have publicly announced their candidacy for the Republican mayor's post, John J. Schwenk, former city alderman-at-large and Alderman Samuel J. Perry of the Fifth Ward.

In addition to his many civic affiliations, Schecter also served the city as a member of the Kingston Board of Water Commission for 12 years. He was president of the board in 1954.

Schecter is a former vice president of the Empire State Zionist Region of America, served as president of the Congregation of Ahavath Israel and also as president of the Kingston Zionist Organization of America.

He also is past president of the P-T-A of School 6 and formerly served as vice president of the Greater City Council, P-T-A.

Heads Fund Drives
In other civic fields he has served as city chairman of the Muscular Dystrophy Drive, was a member of the Cerebral Palsy executive board, member of the board of directors of the Kingston P-T-A.

Moscow Double-Talk On Berlin Attacked

Dredging Project To Start Point Park Area To Be Filled In

Kingston Point as a state park may become nearer a reality as work starts this year on dredging the Hudson River in this area for a deeper waterway between New York and Albany.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel said today he had been notified by the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers that bids were opened June 29 for dredging Area 2 on the river between North Germantown and Kingston. The announcement stated that a contract will be signed soon with the Gahagan Dredging Corp., of 90 Broad Street, New York. Actual work likely will begin in the fall, the mayor said.

Will Use Kingston Point

The mayor stated that spoils pumped from the river channel will be deposited on sites along the stream, including Kingston Point where the marshland is to be filled in to lay groundwork for a public recreation area. He has proposed that the state include the site in its parks program.

Spoils from the river bottom will also be dumped north of the city in the brickyard area, Radel said.

According to plans 1,894,800 cubic yards of spoils will be pumped from the navigable channel of the river and deposited on the two local sites and other areas along the Hudson between North Germantown and Kingston.

Earmarked in former President Eisenhower's budget for the 1962 fiscal year which began July 1 was $5,000,000 for improvement of the river from New York to Albany. This appropriation was among many representing a total estimated cost of $13,200,000 for flood control, navigation and reclamation projects in New York State as proposed in Eisenhower's budget.

Supported by Fenney
The Hudson River project was staunchly supported by Bernard A. Fenney, general manager of Reliance Marine Transportation and Construction Corp., 615 Abeneck Street, who was named by President John F. Kennedy in October, 1960 to the nation's Natural Resources Advisory Committee.

The Gahagan Corp. will provide all dredging equipment and pipelines used to carry the spoils from the river channel.

Also included in Eisenhower's budget was $12,000 for a Hudson River siltation study; $2,000 to be used for a survey of the Esopus Creek and $15,000 for a similar survey of the Catskill Creek in Greene County.

Supervisors to Meet
The Ulster County Board of Supervisors will meet in regular session tonight at 8 o'clock at the court house.

Houston Not Boss: Mitchell

Newburgh Defies State, Rules to Start July 15

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Newburgh-New York State welfare battle apparently will be settled in the courts.

Raymond W. Houston, state social welfare commissioner, has ordered Newburgh not to institute 13 strict welfare rules.

Newburgh officials countered with defiance.

Houston said Wednesday night Newburgh officials seemed to indicate they wanted legal action. Defiance by the city may mean eventual court action, he said.

Mitchell Talks
City Manager Joseph Mitchell, when informed of Houston's ban, said:

"Mr. Houston is not the boss of the city of Newburgh, even though he would like to think he is. The regulations are going into effect July 15 as scheduled."

The rules are designed to pare welfare costs in the city and reduce welfare rolls.

Houston said the Newburgh proposals, if carried out, "would set up an illegal program around unfortunate men, women and children; and even if not carried out, they constitute psychological warfare against the needy and helpless."

Discussion Due
A spokesman for the state welfare board said the board would take up the Newburgh matter Monday and Tuesday at a meeting in Saranac Lake.

Gov. Rockefeller has remained out of the conflict.

The state maintains that the Newburgh rules ignore state and federal laws.

Among the city regulations are

Carpenters Vote Tonight on Pact, Acceptance Seen

Members of the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters will vote tonight on acceptance of the terms of a new four year contract which was offered earlier this month to bring to a close a strike which had begun on June 1. The old contract expired May 31.

Voting will take place at the regular monthly meeting at Governor Clinton Hotel.

Returned July 5
Carpenters have been at work since the agreement was reached on July 5. Under the new terms a 20 cent an hour annual increase will be effective for the next four years, there will be a 1 per cent increase in pensions and there will be a "free" two mile zone around major cities before the $1 a day travel pay will become effective.

It is expected the new terms will be ratified this evening.

Lone Star Approves
Employees of the Lone Star Cement Corporation at Hudson by a 57 to 4 vote on Tuesday ratified provisions of a new contract retroactive to May 1. The vote was at a meeting held at the Hudson VGV hall, presided over by Malcolm Smalley, president of Local 28, United Cement.

West Will Not Bow: De Gaulle Free Vote First, Bonn to Russians

By ANDREW BOKOWIEC

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle said Wednesday the West will never let the Soviet Union settle the fate of Berlin alone "as if the three great powers had no rights there."

The French leader in a television speech warned the Soviets they are creating a crisis over the former German capital that threatens the peace of the world.

Acceptance Out

De Gaulle charged the Soviets with calling for peace "while formulating requirements which threaten to put it in danger."

"The Soviets are renewing their threat of unilaterally settling the fate of Berlin... if Washington, London and Paris do not give up the present status of the town as required by Moscow," he said, then warned: "I declare once more, there is no chance of this being accepted."

He further warned the Soviet Union it must bear the full responsibility for any "grave consequences" of a crisis over Berlin. At the same time he called for an atmosphere of true cooperation and coexistence in which "a problem like that of Germany would lose much of its bitterness and might, at some moment, be considered objectively by the interested powers."

Bids New Arms

De Gaulle told his own people that France must speedily purchase new arms to replace the World War II weapons that most of her forces have. Starting in September, he said, the length of French draftees' military service will be cut by an unspecified number of weeks, and funds thus saved will be used to modernize the army.

Moscow radio said De Gaulle's remarks on Berlin "only repeated U.S. and West German propaganda, crudely distorting the Soviet position." The broadcast said the French leader proposed "to prolong the occupation there, keeping West Berlin as a central provocation in the heart of Europe."

In Moscow, meanwhile, the West German government told the Soviets free elections throughout divided Germany must precede the signing of any German peace treaty.

The West German note replied to a Soviet note proposing that separate peace treaties be signed with West Germany and Communist East Germany. Bonn replied that a peace treaty must be concluded with a legitimate German government freely elected by all the German people.

W. Berlin Calm

West Berlin continued calm as storm clouds gathered overhead. But the flight of refugees streamed into the "escape hatch" from Communist East Germany at a rate of more than 1,000 a day—the highest in eight years.

New York Forces Ready for Call To Arms: Report

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York State National Guard, 30,000 men strong, is ready for a possible mobilization call.

The state's infantry and armored divisions and artillery and support units could be assembled within four hours, a spokesman for the Army National Guard said Wednesday.

The Army Guard has 25,700 of the state's men under arms.

Some Air National Guard jet fighters could be in the air in minutes, Brig. Gen. Vito J. Castellano said.

Castellano, deputy chief of staff of the New York State air guard, said the 4,000-man branch could be fully operational within a day.

Army and Air Guard units in the state have not been placed on special alert, however.

Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatrick raised the possibility in Washington Tuesday that some units of the National Guard and reserve would be called up to meet Soviet threats.

The last time New York National Guard units were activated was during the Korean War. Approximately 75 per cent of the Guard and Reserve forces were called during the Korean campaign.

All state units were mobilized during World War II.

Crime Detection And Enforcement Topic at Rotary

An interesting talk on the subject of crime detection and law enforcement on the local scene was given by Lt. Lemuel F. Howard of the Kingston Police Department at the luncheon-meeting of the Kingston Rotary Club Wednesday.

On the division of crimes, the speaker discussed burglary and housebreaking, entry and intrusion, extortion, false personation, cheats, vandalism, prowlers, public intoxication and traffic violations.

He also explained the difference between felonies, misdemeanors and offenses and the original jurisdiction of the courts in criminal actions.

In his discussion of burglaries here, he paid tribute to members of the Kingston Police Department who worked day and night without overtime remuneration in breaking the ring of safe-crackers operating in the city.

He also acknowledged the co-operation extended by the sheriff's office, FBI and police departments in nearby cities in their mutual arrangement with the Kingston Police Department in solving crimes committed in this area.

To Check Further On Whether There Was Another Life

By JERRY BUCK

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Are there persons living today who lived another life in another body—perhaps in some bygone century?

An eminent University of Virginia psychiatrist isn't sure, but he says he has found enough evidence in a 10-year study to warrant further investigation.

For additional proof he is leaving Saturday for India and Ceylon, where several children claim to have memories of another life.

The doctor, Ian Stevenson, is professor of neurology and psychiatry and chairman of that department at the university's School of Medicine. He will work under a grant from the Parapsychology Foundation in New York.

Says There's Evidence

He says succinctly, "There is some evidence that part of the human organism survives physical death." He says he is not referring to any organic part of the body, but "to what was called the soul in the 19th century."

Speaking of case studies of children who claim to have lived before, Dr. Stevenson says, "Apparent memories of this kind are fragmentary, and usually fade as the children get older. Such children usually remember from a dozen to 20 items, and these are usually scenes of strong emotional significance, such as the death of a mother or father."

Will Make a Report

Dr. Stevenson said he hopes to release a full report within a year on one such case—this one involving a woman in Philadelphia.

He said that under hypnosis the woman undergoes a personality change and switches from English to an early form of Swedish dialect. Out of hypnosis, she speaks no Swedish at all and has no apparent knowledge of the Swedish language.

Riders Change Minds, Go Back to Little Rock Jail

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four "Freedom Riders" who earlier agreed to stop their tour of the South in exchange for suspended fines and jail sentences changed their minds and returned to jail at Little Rock, Ark.

One of the four, the Rev. John C. Raines, 27, of Staakut, N.Y., said Wednesday night the group discussed the matter and decided that to leave would be giving up something they believed was right.

Raines said he assumed the group would begin serving six-month sentences.

Municipal Judge Quinn Glover convicted the group on breach of peace charges Wednesday but said he would suspend their six-month terms and $500 fines if they would go home.

The four, arrested Monday night when they stopped at Little Rock en route from St. Louis to Shreveport and New Orleans, La., at first agreed to leave but later decided to remain in jail.

Meanwhile at New Orleans Judge John Minor Wisdom of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals granted a convicted Freedom Rider the right to take her case to his court. It was the first of the Freedom Rider cases to reach this judicial level.

Wisdom signed a certificate of probable cause allowing Elizabeth Wyckoff, 46, New York free lance writer, to appeal to the federal appeals court.

Miss Wyckoff was arrested June 2 at the Trailways bus terminal in Jackson, Miss., for breach of the peace and convicted on June 5. Jackson City Judge James Spencer sentenced her to a $200 fine and a suspended 60-day jail term. She refused to pay the fine and went to the state prison to work it out at the rate of $3 per day.

At Jackson, Spencer convicted two Jackson Negroes for breach of the peace in the city's first lunch counter sit-in. He fined Lavahn Brown, 16, and Jimmie Travis, 18, $300 and sentenced them to four months in jail.

At San Francisco, five Bay area religious leaders are heading a "mission to Mississippi" in an attempt to help remove segregation barriers in Southern interstate travel terminals.

About 35 clergymen from throughout the United States are scheduled to begin a series of meetings in Mississippi July 20 with both segregationist and integrationist leaders.

Four Are Elected to School Board Positions Wednesday

Jack O. Pakanen, Mrs. Sarah Brandt, Henry P. Breitenbach and Steve Stycos were elected to the Saugerties Central School Board of Education at the election Wednesday.

A total of 658 votes were registered for the eight candidates running. Pakanen who received 316 votes which placed him on the board for a one year term vacated by the resignation of Kenneth B. Beadle earlier in the year was running against Norman E. Nitschke, who polled 217 votes, and Charles Ollinger who polled 89 votes.

Mrs. Brandt of Quarryville received 476 votes for the three year term vacated by Mrs. Mary Lasher of Saxton, while her opposition, Edward Somers of the village polled 113 votes.

Henry P. Breitenbach running unopposed for a three year term received a total of 492 votes.

Steve Stycos who has served on the board for the past two years was reelected for a three year term with a vote of 414 as compared to his opposition, Sheldon C. Fuller, who received 201 votes.

Pakanen is a licensed land surveyor and a long time resident of the Saugerties area. He is a member of the Reformed Church, Rotary Club, William H. Raymond Lodge, IOOF, and has been active in the youth program including Little League and scouting.

He resides with his wife Julia and son Jack Jr. in Oakledge Park.

Mrs. Brandt is the wife of Evrett Brandt and is a member of the Quarryville Methodist Church. They have three small children, Edward, Robert and Lois.

Breitenbach is a member of Atoneement Lutheran Church, president of the Lions Club, a member of the citizens advisory group appointed by the board of education. He and his wife Shirley have two daughters, Christine and Holly.

Steve Stycos who lives at 234 Main Street was born in Constantinople and came to Saugerties 50 years ago where he has operated a tailor and furrier shop ever since. He and his wife, the former Clotilda Mayone, have two sons, Joseph, an associate professor of sociology at Cornell University and Roland who attends Southern University in Los Angeles.

The organizational meeting of the board will be held Tuesday night, July 18, at the administration building at which time the new president will be elected to replace John Lowther who retired from the board. Other members of the board are Mrs. Agnes Schroeder, Robert Herb, Charles Riccardi, Harry Hoffman and Richard Smith.

Assistant clerks and inspectors for the election were Mrs. Dorothy Burns, Vera Robinson, Edwin Mack, Lorenz Loerzel.

Tests Indicate SHS Students Above Average

Saugerties High School pupils averaged from one to 32 points higher in 25 out of 30 standard tests used to measure achievement this May and June than the average pupils in New York State or the United States. In only five tests did the average of the Saugerties pupils fall a few points below the average of the group with which they were being compared.

A check is made annually by the high school of the reading ability of each pupil in grades seven through 12. Wherever deficiencies are found, the pupil is helped so far as the resources of the school will provide. The developmental reading program which is in operation is designed to improve the reading level of each pupil. Nationally-recognized reading tests administered in May showed that the average of the seventh grade pupils was 20 points higher, eighth grade pupils, 30 points higher, ninth grade pupils, 20 points higher, tenth grade pupils 25 points higher, and eleventh grade pupils, 10 points higher than the national average. The twelfth grade pupils scored slightly below average.

A check is made annually in grades eight through eleven to determine pupils' progress in understanding the mechanics of English and the way English should be written in order to be most effective. This spring in grades eight and nine the average of the groups was from one to nine points higher than the national average on recognized tests. In grades ten and eleven, the average of the pupils was from five to seven points below the national average. Since in this particular series of tests the group with which the Saugerties pupils were compared is unusually selective, the results were very commendable.

In grades seven and eight New York State Survey Tests are administered annually in most areas of subject matter in order to compare the achievement of Saugerties High School pupils with that of other pupils in the state. In every instance the average of the Saugerties pupils was higher than the state average. In grade seven the average of the local pupils exceeded that of the state average as follows: English, by 12 points; social studies, by 11 points; mathematics, by 16 points; and science, by eight points. In the eighth grade the average exceeded the state average in each of the three areas tested: mathematics, by 15 points; science, by 20 points; and social studies, by 10 points.

In May the ninth grade students took a series of nationally-recognized tests which tested their educational development to date. In every area the Saugerties High School freshmen ranked in the upper four per cent in the nation. The areas tested included background of social studies, background in natural science, correctness in expressing the English language, mathematical thinking, ability to read and understand social studies, natural science and literature, general vocabulary, and use of sources of reference material.

In addition to the achievement tests described above, Saugerties High School pupils take three mental ability tests during grades seven through 12, an interest inventory in the ninth grade, and prognostic tests in some subjects as needed. They also participate in such testing programs as the National Merit Scholarship Program, the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Tests, and the Regents Scholarship Examinations.

DC7 With 85 Riders Lands With Flat Tire

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A United Air Lines DC7 carrying 85 passengers and a crew of five made a routine landing at International Airport Wednesday night, despite a disabled nose wheel.

Capt. Robert Langdon, the pilot, said a tire blew out as the four-engine plane took off from Denver after earlier stops at Milwaukee and Cleveland. The flight, UAL's 119, originated in New York. Except for a shower of sparks as the nose wheel's steel rim slashed along the concrete runway, the landing was no different from most.

Current estimates suggest that the universe is from 10 to 13 billion years old.

Ydigoras Claims Plot Is Smashed, Siege Proclaimed

GUATEMALA (AP) — President Miguel Ydigoras claimed complete control of Guatemala today after crushing a new plot against his regime. But Ydigoras proclaimed a state of siege, a modified form of martial law.

A communique said the plotters were rounded up as they prepared to attack an air force base near the capital. Unofficial reports said about 100 persons were arrested. Machineguns, grenades and ammunition were seized.

Ydigoras said banners of Fidel Castro's Cuban revolutionary movement were taken from the rebels, but he conceded that the plot could have been planned by followers of former President Carlos Castillo Armas, a firm anti-Communist who was assassinated four years ago.

Disturbance May Prove Big Test For Storm Hunter

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A weather disturbance in the Atlantic could provide a quick test for the new camera-carrying Tiro III hurricane-hunter satellite.

The 283-pound satellite rocketed into orbit Wednesday to photograph and perhaps discover the cause of tropical storms. Within hours, the Miami Weather Bureau reported a disturbance southeast of Puerto Rico, 500-600 miles east of the Lesser Antilles. Above-normal shower activity, clouds and moderate winds were reported from the area. Weather officials said over-all conditions were not favorable for hurricane development, but Navy hurricane patrol planes were to make a thorough aerial investigation.

A Tiro III project officer said the satellite probably would pass over the disturbance zone today and there was a possibility its two television cameras would obtain pictures of the potential storm.

A Thor-Delta rocket boosted the meteorological satellite into an orbit ranging from 460.74 to 505.52 miles above the earth. It circles the globe once every 100 minutes. On its first pass, Tiro III transmitted 35 pictures showing cloud cover formation over Newfoundland, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the St. Lawrence Valley region.

Missile-Detector

Spy-in-Sky Circles Earth in 2½ Hours, Including Red Area

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP) — A Midas satellite equipped to detect hostile missile firings was circling the earth every 2 hours and 40 minutes today in a record-breaking orbit that repeatedly takes it over the Soviet Union.

Midas III, the first in the missile-alarm series to be launched from the West Coast, carries infrared equipment which can spot rocket exhaust.

The rocket—a big Atlas booster topped by an Agena second-stage vehicle—blasted off at 8:12 a.m. Wednesday from this Navy missile base adjacent to Vandenberg Air Force Base.

Air Force officials were jubilant, since the high altitude and circular orbit will permit the spy-type vehicle to scan wider areas.

The same officials were firm, however, in refusing to issue progress reports on the satellite. All they would say was that Midas III's first pass over the Soviet Union would take place five hours after launch and that it would be in scanning range of Soviet missile bases in the Ural Mountains six hours later.

Ultimately, a network of sky scouts is expected to double the present 15-minute radar warning time of missile attack.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 13, 1961

INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION

When it comes to the business of getting materials and making good, the people in this country are, in effect, slowly working themselves out of a job.

Right now only about 25 million Americans are directly engaged in product effort. That means manufacturing, construction, mining, farming, and such transportation as is involved in these processes.

This nation of more than 180 millions is awash with factory-made goods, yet just 12 million people produce the entire torrent and could turn out more.

These totals leave out of account people in managerial clerical and other jobs not directly associated with the production process. Hence they differ from standard government figures in these fields.

The big cry today is "automation," but this is in fact merely the dramatic new phase of an economic and technological trend long under way and most certainly destined to continue indefinitely.

Gerard Piel, in a document written for the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Republic, suggests that by the year 2000 factory workers may be as scarce as farmers today. The latter are down to six million.

In his view, not just factory hands but white collar workers and even management itself could be partly displaced by the steady advance of automated equipment.

Machines today are beginning to do the work of the human nervous system as well as human muscle. Built-in controls govern industrial processes even without human button-pushers. What Piel calls the "white collar computer" encroaches on the higher tasks of the brain. It could take over some functions of middle and top management. He adds:

"As a decision maker, the computer can subject much larger masses of data to more sophisticated analysis in much shorter periods of time."

It can also "program" better than "most of our highest paid executives" and learn from experience to improve as a "manager."

As fewer and fewer people produce more and more, what gives the nation's growing millions the means to buy industry's products?

The answer is multifold. As many as work in factory production are engaged in distributing goods. Other millions find jobs in the vastly expanded service trades, and bigger government draws many.

Countless industries unheard of in 1900 exist today, and the broad volume of goods is fantastically greater. Arms needs have been high for the past 20 years—except in the first years after World War II. About 2.5 million industrial workers fill military orders, and a matching number serve in the armed forces.

Young people start work later in life, and the elderly quit sooner. Most Americans work a third less in a given week than was true in 1900. Those changes help "spread the work." And a much larger slice of the national income falls to those in middle and lower ranges.

So we have largely "made out." But with the scientific revolution plunging on, and millions of new people hitting the labor market, we will need even greater social invention and ingenuity to gain the means to buy back what our myriad nonhuman slaves in factory and office and power plant can produce for us.

BLESS OUR MORTGAGE

You can turn up some reasonably impressive figures to support the contention that the United States more than ever before is a nation of homeowners. But the figures are a bit tricky.

In suburbia, the growing part of most cities, one of every six homes is sold each year. Furthermore, about 60 per cent of the country's homes are mortgaged today

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
THEY DO COME BACK

General Douglas MacArthur sat through the entire Eisenhower Administration unwanted and unused. It was such a waste of superior ability. It was humiliating for him to see insignificant and inexperienced persons consulted in matters to which MacArthur had devoted his entire life. President Eisenhower chose to do it that way and all that was left for our greatest military mind was to sit in his apartment in the Waldorf-Astoria, occasionally seeing a friend with whom he might discuss the affairs of the world.

Never once was he consulted by President Eisenhower. Oh! Yes! He was asked to lunch on one occasion at the White House. All the big brass were assembled. Nothing was said about the Far East, the subject on which MacArthur is our greatest authority and which, at the moment, was red hot. Afterwards he was asked to go into a private room with President Eisenhower. There the President asked General Douglas MacArthur what the businessmen in New York thought of Eisenhower's economic policies!

And so the General sat out eight long years of futility and frustration. President John Kennedy telephoned to him one day and asked him to come to the White House. Then he telephoned a second time and said not to bother to come to Washington as he, the President, was coming up to New York. MacArthur, always correct in his conduct, said that he would call on the President wherever and whenever he desired. The President would have none of that. He went up to MacArthur's apartment, visited with the General and stayed more than an hour. The President learned much about life and the world in that hour, perhaps much more than his large collection of advisers could give him.

And so General MacArthur donned his war cap and a military uniform and went to the Philippines, where his father had served and he had served. And there the people love him as a patriarch of their own. And he loves them, for so many years of his boyhood and manhood were spent there. He has returned! And what a glorious welcome he was given.

Anthony Eden too had been obliterated by politics and by the excitement of small men. History, as it unfolds the affairs of men, has long since justified Eden's conduct at Suez; it is obvious that had he been permitted to carry forward the Suez program with France and Israel as partners, the situation in the Near East would have been better for the West today. What John Foster Dulles actually accomplished by his Suez program was that he opened the way for the Russian alliance with Nasser and the emergence of Nasser as a strong man — Nasser, who had already been defeated and might have been eliminated. It has proved not to have been far-sighted to hit down Great Britain and France in the interest of Nasser.

And so Eden was attacked and reviled not only by enemies but by so-called friends and subordinates who seized upon the occasion to set themselves up as great figures. Where are they today? The time has come to account for their wisdom and they have shown that they had been in error. What has become of Anthony Nutting? The Queen honors Eden by making him an Earl and he will speak his mind in the House of Lords. And it will be found that his contribution will be profound.

And so the tide has come in and recognition has come again to very able statesmen. The lesson: give history a chance to speak its piece. MacArthur will be remembered as the American military leader who rescued the Pacific from the Japanese; restored Japan to sanity and strength; saved Korea from total Soviet domination and has proved to have been correct concerning Red China. Eden has proved to have been correct concerning Suez. He might have saved his country and all the world much grief.

Small men are ever ready to destroy the reputations and usefulness of great men, but if these men live long enough, they are restored to their correct role in history and men honor them for their wisdom and service. A wonderful example of just that is the respect and even affection which has been the universal award to Herbert Hoover in his later years, when he works valiantly to write a correct version of the history of his time. For a Carefree Vacation, Observe These Cautions

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

You don't have to be a crepe hanger, but you should give thought to some of the special risks that may confront the carefree vacationer.

The first is the menace of driving after having only a few convivial drinks with fellow-vacationers.

A recent report from Colorado officials places the responsibility for traffic fatalities on drinking drivers in 30 to 35 per cent of accidents. By drinking drivers, the report does not refer to persons obviously drunk but to those whose blood alcohol levels might not exceed the concentrations resulting from a few beers or two average-size cocktails.

The second is that of eating raw clams and oysters. Officials of the United States Public Health Service verified the suspicion of local officials who attributed local outbreaks of infectious hepatitis ("catarrhal jaundice") to clams. Because of the long incubation period of this serious virus infection (two to four months), it is often difficult to establish a cause-and-effect relationship. However, in a Jersey study, better than half the patients admitted eating raw clams within 60 days of the onset of their illness.

The third is the danger of drinking raw milk or of eating raw sausage meat at a farmhouse whose spick-and-span cleanliness removes any obvious fear of the possibility of infection. You must bear in mind that federal meat inspectors have all they can do to supervise wholesale and retail establishments that handle and process dairy and meat products. They cannot possibly extend their inspections to individual farmers and processors unless some particular need is brought to their attention.

As result it may take some time to discover that a particular sample of raw milk is a source for the spread of streptococcal, tubercular or brucella infection. And, as was recently discovered in Pennsylvania, a small epidemic of trichinosis may be traceable to eating a batch of raw sausage.

Now tuberculosis brucellosis (undulant fever of humans, Bang's Disease or infectious abortion of cattle) and trichinosis (caused by a round worm that settles in muscle tissues, including those of the heart) are serious illnesses. Whatever the pleasures of drinking raw milk and eating raw sausage, they cannot possibly be worth the price you may have to pay for them.

to more than half their total value.

While there were far fewer homeowners decades ago, the record indicates a much higher proportion owned their places outright.

Probably it's fairer to say that most Americans today do not really "own" their homes but "use" them in a kind of service arrangement.

"They Tell Me He's Taming Down"

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Putting the question of Communist China's admission to the U.N. on the General Assembly agenda for debate this September can lead to one of the grandest ballparks in the world's frustrations.

When a new nation wants admission to the U.N., it submits a formal application. This signifies its willingness to abide by the obligations of the U.N. charter. Communist China — having knowingly but not admittedly violated the charter by supporting the North Korean invasion of South Korea in 1951 — doesn't want to come into the world organization in this way by the front door. So there never has been and probably never will be such an application for membership.

THE SIMPLE FACT OF THE MATTER is that the Chinese Communists don't want in the United Nations as long as the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa sits in the world organization as representative of the Chinese people.

So the objective of Red China is to substitute itself for Nationalist China as the sole representative of the Chinese people. The Reds don't accept the "Two-China" theory. Their reason for this is technical but understandable so far as gaining admission to the U.N. is concerned.

Article Four of the U.N. charter, specifies that admission shall be made by the General Assembly on recommendation of the Security Council. So if Red China tried to get into the U.N. the normal way, as a new member, it would first have to clear the Security Council. Nationalist China now sits on the Security Council as one of the four permanent members. It can therefore block the admission of Communist China by casting a veto against its application forever.

The Communist bloc countries therefore argue that seating Red China in the U.N. is not a question of membership, but a question of credentials. They want the China membership in the U.N.—including Security Council seat now held by the Nationalist Republic of China on Formosa—transferred by vote in the General Assembly to the Communist People's Republic of China on the mainland.

THIS IS WHAT THE debate will be about if the question is placed on the agenda by a majority plus one of the countries present and voting in the General Assembly. Representative of countries who are absent or who abstain from voting will not have their nations counted in the total vote.

In view of the uncertain positions of the neutral nations and the 285 African members, eight of whom actually recognize the Chinese Communist government, it is impossible to predict how the vote would go on a question of substituting Red China for Nationalist China as the Chinese charter member of the U.N.

If the question is ruled procedural, it will be decided by majority vote in the General Assembly. If it is ruled substantive, a two-thirds majority will be required.

FOR THE PAST TEN YEARS the United States has been able to keep the question of Chinese membership off the U.N. General Assembly agenda. The record vote was 47 opposing, 27 favoring, seven abstaining, in 1957. Last year the vote was down to 42 opposing, 34 favoring, 22 abstaining.

The Kennedy administration has made no official statement beyond President Kennedy's reply to a press conference question April 12. He said flatly, "The United States is going to meet its commitment to the people on Formosa." Then he added:

"But—and that we had no—cannot make a final statement as to what the vote on the moratorium will be on the admission of Red China." This garbled sentence was later corrected to read, "We have not made a final judgment as to what the vote on the moratorium will be on the admission of Red China."

Today in World Affairs

Defeatism Seen in Pleas To Admit Peiping to U.N.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—There was a time in American history when ideals meant something — when moral force was regarded as a potent influence in shaping world affairs.

But today there is a tendency — as, for example, in handling the problem of Red China — to revert to the dark ages of diplomacy.

In recent weeks, many prominent Americans inside and outside of government here have been claiming that the admission of Red China into the United Nations is "inevitable." This is always coupled with the alibi that, of course, the admission of Red China is not favored by the United States but that the course of events is sure to bring it about, anyhow.

This is a strange concession and a symptom of defeatism. It is gaining ground among persons who call themselves "liberal" but who do not champion the great moral causes which true liberals of the past have espoused. President Woodrow Wilson, for example, a Democrat and a true liberal, never gave ground when a question of moral principle was involved in international relations.

Aggression Ignored

Today, however, those who are arguing in favor of admission of Red China into the United Nations console themselves with the statement that Red China "is a fact" and that the Peiping regime already holds the mainland. No attention is paid to the transgressions of Red China, especially its attack on the troops of the United Nations in Korea in 1950. The United Nations General Assembly itself adopted a resolution at the time formally denouncing Red China as an aggressor. Today there are many prominent persons in this country and abroad who nevertheless brush aside the fact that to admit Red China would be a reward for the aggressor.

The odd part of it is that there is more pressure inside the Western countries and among the so-called "neutrals" for admission of Red China than there is enthusiasm in Peiping itself to join the U.N.

Perhaps the best ways to size up what the admission of Red China means to the world is to look to British officials privately. When they are asked what advantage there has been to Great Britain in giving diplomatic recognition to Red China, the answer is that nothing tangible has been accomplished and that, in fact, complications have resulted from the step.

No Choice for Britain

Great Britain, of course, had no choice. Because of its possession of Hong Kong as a crown colony, life could have been made miserable for the British and their trade interests by the Communists if the London government had not recognized the Peiping government. But the results have not been satisfactory and indicate clearly what the United States might expect if it surrendered to the demand for the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

In a letter from a well informed man in Great Britain, who was asked the question of what the United States would gain by recognizing Communist China, the answer given was as follows:

"Very little—if you take as a point the experience of Britain which was the first Western country to enter into diplomatic relations with the Communist regime in January, 1950—several months before the Korean War broke out.

In the past 11 years the British have learned that the recognition of the Peiping regime insures no special favors, no economic benefits or political advantages. Non-recognition, on the other hand, turns out to have certain advantages. Those European countries which have withheld recognition from the Chinese Communists have gotten treatment as good as, if not better than, that accorded to Great Britain.

British Property Seized

"British business property valued at nearly one billion dollars has suffered substantially the same fate as American business property, notwithstanding that Britain recognizes Red China and the United States doesn't. Virtually all of it has been 'seized' without compensation."

British business men, with few exceptions, have been driven out of China and, as one man put it, the only difference is between "sudden death and strangulation."

British diplomats in Peiping are strictly limited in their movements and contacts. Occasionally they are permitted to travel outside Peiping on special permits or with specially organized, diplomatic tours. In the capital they are allowed to move about without being shadowed by secret police, as is customary in Moscow, but any contact with the Chinese people is virtually banned.

Use Political Strings

The Chinese Communists, of course, tie political strings to recognition. They use it as a weapon. For nearly four years the Peiping regime snubbed the British offer to exchange diplomats, and while the British charge d'affaires was permitted to stay in Peiping with his staff, these officials were not really accorded full diplomatic status or immunity for several years.

It seems certain that, if the United States ever decided to extend diplomatic recognition to the Peiping regime, the Chinese Communists would demand a price for accepting it. They somehow believe that recognition of Peiping is more important to the United States than it is to the Red Chinese.

I would not be surprised if eventually the Red Chinese demanded that all American and Western forces be withdrawn from the Far East as the price of Red China's acceptance of embassies from the Western countries.

Yet there are people in this country and abroad who still favor the "admission" of Red China to the U.N. (Reproduction rights reserved)

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Around 1855, they seldom used street or house numbers in advertisements. This is from the Kingston Democrat Journal, published in Kingston in 1855 and sent to me by attorney, Peter H. Harp. One item reads:

"J. McEntee, Landscape painter, Studio at his residence on the Hill, Rondout, N. Y." He was known to the artist world as Jervis McEntee.

Then as now, people invested money in pets in Kingston. One advertisement of 1855 reads: "Canary bird cages, canary and hemp seed. Feed, glasses, baths, and cuttle fish bone, for sale by C. S. Clay, druggist, corner North Front and Wall Streets, Kingston." The old Eagle Hotel is advertised in this paper. It was run by Thomas Clark, and after he died, by William M. Clark, according to the advertisement. The famous old Eagle Hotel is now an uptown parking lot on Main Street.

The famous old Kingston Hotel, on Crown Street, has an illustrated advertisement in this paper. Before that it was known as Pardee's Hotel. It was run by Solomon Brown and J. H. Stratton, and later just by Solomon Brown. The advertisement says in part: "The ease and facility of visitors reaching Kingston by steamboats, railroad and daily stages, are superior to any previous season. Attached to the above establishment are large and convenient brick stables, where visitors can depend upon careful and experienced hostlers."

Paynter and Southwick, dealers in hardware, agricultural and mechanical implements and tools, iron and steel, were on Wall Street, Kingston, then also.

There are many advertisements of Poughkeepsie merchants, which no doubt was worth their while. Bockee and Jones, were wholesale and retail dealers in drugs, medicines, paints, oils, dye stuff, glass perfume, brushes, No. 297 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, "G. & J. Hannah were dealers in saddlery and trunk hardware, carriage and sleigh trimmings, India rubber goods, carriage bolts, springs, axles, varnishes, enameled, and oil top leather, also manufacturers of turned spokes and best felloes. In 1855 they were at 336 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, on Davis' Block, opposite the Gregory House."

Those were the days of carpet bags, and you could see a "first rate assortment of them at Townsend, Merritt and Crosby's store in Kingston." Kingston was certainly an up-and-coming business village, for they seemed to have the very sort of store and service, that one could obtain in large cities in 1855.

One advertisement informs the public that "he is now prepared to dye and restore all kinds of goods, comprising silks, satins, velvets, plushes, Merinos, broad cloths etc., Ladies' shawls, bonnets, ribbons, cloaks, feathers, and parasols, dyed any shade or color. Straw, willow and chip hats dyed in any color. Carpets, hearth rugs, piano and table covers cleaned in a superior manner. Gentlemen's cloths of every description cleaned, dyed and refinished in a style unsurpassed in this or any other place. Kid gloves cleaned on the shortest notice." W. Appleton, was the proprietor of this establishment, and C. S. Stilwell, was the every sort of store and service,

ICC Is Told Further Loss Could Destroy Central System

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York Central vice president says the railroad's freight volume in the past three years has been below the level of the depression years of 1930-31.

The official, Arthur E. Baylis, told the Interstate Commerce Commission Wednesday that if the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad takes control of the Baltimore and Ohio, along with the proposed merger of the Norfolk & Western, Nickel Plate and Wabash Railroads, it could take away more than half of Central's remaining freight business.

Baylis said loss of this much freight business "would destroy even a system as large as the New York Central."

Baylis said that if Central gains control of the B&O it still will seek rate parity for all North Atlantic ports on export-import rail freight traffic.

At present under long standing ICC orders, New York and Boston, served by Central, have higher rail rates on foreign freight than for the same traffic moving in and out of Philadelphia, Baltimore and Hampton Roads, Va.

Questioned as to what would be Central's attitude if it gained control of the B&O with its access to other ports, Baylis said Central's position is that the competition should not be between various North Atlantic ports, but between his group of ports and rival ports on the South Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico.

Would Return Land

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill has gained subcommittee approval that would return to Malone, N.Y., four acres of land the community offered for use in an Army Reserve training program. A House Armed Forces subcommittee approved the bill Wednesday.

An Army spokesman told the committee the Army had accepted the property but later decided the land was not suitable.

Speed Legalized In 2,500 Zones Throughout State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — After nearly a week, speed limits in 2,500 special highway zones throughout the state are legal again.

The limits had been voided by the state's highest court on the ground the State Motor Vehicle Department had not filed the limits with the office of the Secretary of State.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner William S. Hults, said the orders filed Wednesday covered the period from January 21, 1959, to the present.

"We believe that practically all the (State Traffic) commission's orders are covered by filing," he said.

The Court of Appeals, in a decision last Friday, ruled that the limits were invalid because commission orders that set them were not filed with the Secretary of State.

The decision also declared invalid thousands of speeding convictions under the orders over the last 25 years.

The department ruled, however, that persons convicted under the commission orders must obtain individual court orders to clear their records.

Jetport Decision Toughest One Yet For Gov. Meyner

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Gov. Robert B. Meyner today faced a tough decision on just about the most explosive issue of his eight years in office.

For 6½ hours Wednesday, Meyner sat in a chair in the Assembly Chamber and absorbed the taunts, boos and hisses of a hostile standing-room-only audience.

Most of the 1,000 persons filling the chamber and spilling over into the halls and Senate quarters wanted Meyner to sign a bill banning a jetport in seven North Jersey counties.

Their main attack was on a proposed $220 million jetport which the Port of New York authority wants to build in the great swamps of Morris County. It would be the largest airport in the world, they said, and would

The only other sites favored by the port authority are at Soleburg in Hunterdon County, which drew opposition also, and at Pine Island in Orange County, N.Y. Meyner said New York would want a jetport there although there is some local opposition.

Final Arguments Set for Today On CAB Transfer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board hears final arguments today on the proposed transfer from Eastern to Mohawk airlines of authority to serve eight New York and Vermont communities.

Two hearing examiners last month recommended the transfer requested by the companies last Feb. 16.

Under an agreement between the airlines, Mohawk would take over Eastern's routes between the New York metropolitan area and Rutland and Burlington, Vt., and Albany, Glens Falls, Plattsburgh, Saranac Lake-Lake Placid, Massena and Watertown, N.Y. The agreement will be cancelled, the airlines have said, unless the CAB approves it by Sept. 1. Action is expected before that date.

Six Firemen Hurt Before the Blaze

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Six firemen were injured Wednesday in the collision of two firetrucks at a street intersection while en route to a fire.

None of the firemen were injured seriously. Witnesses said the trucks were sounding their sirens while on the way to a fire two blocks away. It turned out to be a minor fire, officials said.

Proper Size Hose

Stockings that are too short can actually change the shape of your foot. So be careful to buy your hose at least a half inch longer than your big toe.

Hearing examiners said Mohawk should be able to take over the routes at a small profit without government subsidy. They said Eastern made a $5,543 profit on service to the eight communities last year.

More Eggs Due At Lower Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — An upturn in egg production accompanied by possibly lower prices appears to be in store for producers and consumers during the fall and winter.

Egg production has been running below year earlier levels because of cutbacks influenced by low prices. But laying flocks are on the increase again. An agriculture Department report shows that the number of layers on July 1 totaled 276 million, or about the same as a year earlier. Up until this time, this year's flock had been smaller than last year's. The recent increase reflects addition of pullets from this year's hatch. The latter will begin producing in volume soon.

Ike's Conduct Easier to Follow

Future Course Not So Clear Under JFK Rule

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's tougher to figure where President Kennedy is heading—after almost six months in office—than it was with President Eisenhower in the same length of time.

Eisenhower's performance up to mid-July 1953 clearly foretold the course his whole presidency would take:

Tried to Avoid Explosions

He would be cautious, conservative. He considered himself not an innovator but a pacifier and would try to avoid both experiments and explosions. And he would let his key men operate strongly. It turned out that way.

His programs were conservative, even when extending and broadening New Deal programs. He tried nothing basically new, even in foreign affairs. His military alliances, for instance, were simply built on President Truman's.

He became so popular as a pacifier of troubled conditions, even the Democrats were afraid to tangle with him and Premier Khrushchev made friendly noises until the American U2 spy plane was shot down over the Soviet Union.

Eisenhower was so cautious he never once said whether he considered the Supreme Court ban on public school segregation good or bad. And he let the strong men in his Cabinet run their shows with a minimum of interference.

Perhaps Kennedy's attitudes, unlike those of the older Eisenhower, are not as fixed at 44 as Eisenhower's were at 62. Or perhaps Kennedy, not too positive on where he's heading, will adapt himself to changing conditions.

Conservative Like Ike

So far, like Eisenhower, he's been generally conservative. For example, in his domestic programs, although some think his proposal on medical care for the aged goes too far.

It might be argued Kennedy has to deal with a highly conservative Congress and that once Congress became more liberal he would too.

But Eisenhower, too, had to deal with a conservative Congress, run most of the time by Kennedy's own Democrats. And there's no reason to think, short of national emergency, future Congresses will be less conservative.

In a number of ways—if not always in foreign affairs—Kennedy, like Eisenhower, has been cautious. For instance, like Eisenhower, but unlike Truman, he has carefully tried to avoid angering anyone.

His caution, like Eisenhower's, perhaps shows up best in civil rights.

True, Kennedy by executive action — which means through his administration, without having to go through Congress—has taken some steps on his own to reduce racial discrimination.

Talks With Restraint

But during the presidential campaign he made extensive promises about offering Congress very quickly a slate of civil rights proposals. He not only hasn't done so but has carefully avoided approving even those introduced by some members of Congress.

In foreign affairs his conduct hasn't been clear at all. For the most part he has talked with restraint and even went to Vienna to try to understand Khrushchev better.

But he also approved the patently weak Cuban invasion which not only was a disaster but angered friends and foes around the world. Once he talked tough about protecting Laos from the Communists but never talked tough again while the Communists just went on gobbling up the country.

He sounds stern about Berlin but acts in a way which might give the Soviets the idea he's not quite sure about American military power since he has called for one appraisal after another on that power.

Minister Says Southerners Un-Christian

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—An Episcopal minister, who returned Wednesday night from Mississippi where he spent 23 days in jail as a "Freedom Rider," says Southerners are un-Christian and un-Christian.

The Rev. Grant Muse, white pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Berkeley, told newsmen that he and other riders were abused and ridiculed by their jailers.

He said in Parchman penitentiary, where he spent half his time after his arrest in Jackson, jailers used a type of handcuff called a wristbreaker and goaded rider prisoners with rods charged with electricity.

Muse said he and another prisoner shared a cell, 6 by 9 feet, with a basin, toilet and two cots. "For the first two days food was adequate. But after that we existed on corn bread, green beans and chunks of pork fat with two- or three-inch bristles on it."

Riders were fed large doses of a mixture called Black Annie, milk of magnesia in blackstrap molasses, Muse said.

He was one of six San Francisco Bay area riders arrested June 20 after they had entered a Negro waiting room in Jackson.

He was sentenced to four months but was released when the Congress of Racial Equality paid his $500 fine.

When they were transferred from Jackson to Parchman prison, he and the others were loaded into trucks like cattle, Muse said.

As they approached small towns, the drivers would turn on sirens and flashing red lights. "Then they would stop and let the natives look in at us and jeer," he related.

Conductor Is Fired

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's military government fired conductor John S. Kim of the Seoul Philharmonic Orchestra today and accused him of pocketing $1,800 he got by selling musical equipment belonging to the orchestra.

Saugerties Man Held Following Rhinebeck Crash

Two Rhinebeck residents were injured in a collision there Wednesday morning and a Saugerties man was charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

The accident, state police said, occurred at 10:30 a. m. when the 1958 Rhinebeck sedan and 1956 Saugerties truck were in collision on Mill Street in Rhinebeck.

State Police Sergeant Walter Donegan identified the injured as Lewis Erhart, 73, and his wife, Ruby, 72, both of Rhinebeck. They were taken to the Rhinebeck Hospital by the Rhinebeck Rescue Squad.

Donegan said the truck was owned by Arthur Forst, RFD, Saugerties, and operated by John Rosell, 24, same address. Rosell was charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, the sergeant said.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Harrington, Rosell was paroled pending a hearing at 8 p. m. today.

Troopers said Erhart suffered lacerations of the scalp and left knee, a broken left arm and multiple contusions and abrasions. His wife suffered scalp lacerations, broken ribs and multiple abrasions and contusions.

Donegan said Erhart was traveling south and the truck going north when the truck struck the left front of the sedan.

Rosell received a laceration of his lower lip.

Treated for Tablets

A 70-year-old Kingston woman was treated at Kingston Hospital early today after she reportedly took 12 unidentified tablets, according to police. Mary Dams, of 19 Foxhall Avenue, went to the emergency room at the hospital, police said, and told a nurse she had taken the pills. The stomach pump was applied and the woman was admitted for further treatment.

Adenauer Sees Refugee Panic

BERLIN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today the heavy flow of refugees into West Berlin indicates the Communist East German regime was stepping up pressure on its citizens.

"The refugee situation proves that conditions over there have become unbearable," the West German leader told a news conference. "A panic seems to have broken out."

Refugees now cross easily from East Berlin to West Berlin and are flown to West Germany. Soviet threats to hand over more authority to East Germany have encouraged the Red regime there to demand control over air corridors to West Berlin. This would close the refugee escape hatch. West Berlin is 100 miles inside East Germany.

Within East Germany the tension over Berlin has brought a stepped-up campaign to make people support communism more actively. Party members are urged to do more grass-roots organization work.

These organizing efforts, plus food shortages of such staples as potatoes and butter appear to be major causes for refugee flight. The Communists imposed new controls in East Berlin again today to stop the drain on their sagging economy. West Berliners hereafter can obtain services in East Berlin only by changing their marks on a one-for-one basis. A Western mark is worth 4.62 East marks in West Berlin.

West Berliners have been taking advantage of the cheap East German money by getting haircuts, laundry service and the like in East Berlin.

Adenauer held the news conference at the close of a two-day stay in Berlin, his first visit to the isolated city in 18 months. He then flew through rainy weather back to Bonn in a U.S. Air Force plane. West German planes are not permitted in the corridors over East Germany.

Adenauer rejected direct negotiation between West Germany and Communist East Germany, as urged by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. He also turned down again West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt's suggestion for a 52-nation conference on Germany, made up of Germany's wartime enemies.

The chancellor said again that a German settlement must be based on self-determination of the entire German people.

He complimented Secretary of State Dean Rusk for setting "a pattern of restraint" in the Berlin negotiations.

He vacated a temporary injunction barring police from questioning the girl further and rejected a petition for a permanent order sought by an attorney for the girl.

Chyrel Lee, under psychiatric examination since July 3, admitted kidnapping the Edgington boy and 3-year-old Andy Ashley, according to Police Commissioner Frank N. Felice.

But police said the girl denied killing the Ashley boy, whose found body was found floating in Delaware Park Lake on June 25, two days after he was reported missing from his home.

Chyrel Lee, according to police, was identified by the Edgington boy and by 3-year-old Susan Benedict as the person who lured them from their homes and left them bound and gagged on a nearby railroad embankment.

The Edgington boy was kidnapped June 22, the Benedict girl two months earlier.

The three incidents all were in the same general neighborhood on the city's north side.

Chyrel Ordered Arraigned Over Kidnaping Child

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Chyrel Lee Jolls, the 15-year-old school girl questioned in the Ashley murder case, today was ordered arraigned in Erie County Court on a warrant charging her with kidnapping 5-year-old Richard Edgington.

State Supreme Court Justice Matthew J. Jansen said there was no valid reason why the girl shouldn't be arraigned on the charge in the usual manner.

He vacated a temporary injunction barring police from questioning the girl further and rejected a petition for a permanent order sought by an attorney for the girl.

Chyrel Lee, under psychiatric examination since July 3, admitted kidnapping the Edgington boy and 3-year-old Andy Ashley, according to Police Commissioner Frank N. Felice.

Three-Way Race Gerosa to Run For N.Y. Mayor

NEW YORK (AP)—City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa, a Democrat, announced today he would run for mayor as an independent candidate in the Nov. 7 general election.

This assured a three-way race that could split the Democratic vote.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner and State Comptroller Arthur Levitt are competing for the Democratic mayoral nomination.

State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz is the Republican organization choice.

Gerosa made his announcement shortly after Levitt, backed by the Democratic organization against Wagner, completed his three-man slate by designating State Sen. Thomas J. Mackell of Queens for city council president.

Gerosa's announcement said he intended to skip the Democratic primary Sept. 7 and run on nominating petitions to be obtained in August. He requires 7,500 valid signatures for a place on the November ballot.

He said he felt free to announce his decision now that the Democratic leaders have chosen their candidates.

"I trust the people," he said. "I am not afraid to run alone."

Gerosa and Wagner feuded on various city issues and the mayor dropped him from his reelection slate.

Gerosa did not announce any running mates. It was reported he would run alone.

Wagner, target of charges of pressuring city employees to back his candidacy, said meanwhile that he is "not going to let politics stand in the way of reappointment of a good judge."

Danger Lessens In Coast Blaze

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—Fire fighters today hoped to contain two of California's largest brushland fires of the season, barring more hot winds that have aggravated one of the state's worst droughts in history.

The fire advance slowed five miles from the Bass Lake resort, just off State Highway 41, the year-round route into Yosemite.

63,000 Acres Blackened

Crews were slowly drawing lines around blackened 63,000 acres of brushland that flank this famed Sierra vacation spot.

Towns threatened by flames were apparently out of danger.

The largest fire, which centered about 15 miles south of the park, has burned 38,000 acres, consumed two mountain villages and trapped and killed a couple fleeing in their car.

Dean Schlobahn, State Division of Forestry dispatcher at Fresno, was optimistic.

"If we get a little rain, without the winds, we should be able to control this fire in two days," he said.

Forty miles to the northwest fire fighters made progress with a blaze that began in Calaveras County Sunday and raced south into Tuolumne County, covering 25,000 acres.

Nature helped the fire battlers as winds died down, but a human menace plagued them.

Arsonist Sets Two

An arsonist set two brush fires Wednesday near Jamestown. The blazes consumed hundreds of acres but no buildings, a forester said.

The large fire flared up Tuesday, burning the Madera County communities of Nipinnawase and Ahwahnee. Only a few buildings were left standing.

Only known casualties were Mr. and Mrs. George Kipp, both in their 60s, who were burned to death in their car on a mountain road as they fled Ahwahnee.

Forestry officials said most of the uncounted evacuees were taken in by residents of nearby communities.

State Division of Forestry dispatcher John Gookin said the new blazes in the boulder-strewn Jamestown area were quickly contained, but predicted fire fighters will have a hard job in extinguishing them.

He said a pyromaniac has plagued the area for several years.

Confident NATO Can Limit Any
Red Aggression

LONDON (AP)—Dirk U. Stikker, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, voiced confidence today that the Western powers can limit any aggression by the Communist bloc.

"Since NATO was founded," Stikker told a news conference, "the Soviet bloc has encroached no farther in the West. Precisely because it has been held in Europe, the threat has now taken other forms."

"The threat with which we are faced has become quite as much political and economic in nature as military," he said. "It is NATO's task now and in the years to come to meet this challenge. I am convinced that we have the military and economic strength and also the morale and the spirit and the resources to endure."

On Berlin, Stikker had this to say: "How far Mr. Khrushchev will go, nobody can say at the present moment. To my mind it is certain that the NATO alliance is united on this problem and the main thing we have to do is to make it abundantly clear to Mr. Khrushchev that he should not underestimate the cohesion of the alliance. What we have to do now is to prevent a crisis."

Stikker is in London for his first official visit since his recent appointment as secretary-general.

Two Cars, Truck
Are in Collision

Two cars and a Board of Public Works truck were involved in a collision at 11:50 a. m. today on Broadway at Pine Grove Avenue, and a woman driver was summoned on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with inadequate brakes, according to police.

Sergeant Carl Janasiewicz said the truck operated by Walter Dart, 40, of 202 Third Street, was stopped on Broadway for a red traffic light, and a car operated by Philip A. Stisi, 17, Rt. 2, Box 349, Morgan Hill, was stopped behind the truck.

Police said a car operated by Florence Reed, 26, of 62 Sycamore Street struck the rear of Stisi's car and pushed it into the rear of the truck.

Janasiewicz said Patrolmen Edward Leonard and Thomas Coffey summoned the woman driver on a charge of driving a car with inadequate brakes.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The drug industry will spend more money than ever this year in its search for new cures for human ailments—and this in spite of some ills of its own.

The industry's troubles include: a chorus of complaints from the ailing who contend their prescription drugs cost too much, official inquiries into the industry's practices both of pricing and promotion, and an average drop in profits of 3.6 per cent.

Denies Overcharging

The industry stoutly denies it overcharges, citing as one of its rising costs the expensive research it carries on with the ever-present risk of finding nothing profitable.

It also defends its promotion tactics as necessary in one of the most highly competitive of industries.

And naturally the individual companies hope that the decline in profits will be reversed. In many cases, if they are, it will be because of some new formula found and developed by their expensive research crews.

The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association reports today that a survey of its member firms shows a record $227 million budgeted for research and development in 1961 of drugs for humans, plus $5.8 million for veterinary drug products.

276 PC Over 1951

The previous record of $206.5 million was invested last year in human drug research and $5.4 million for animals. Together this came to 7.7 per cent of total 1960 domestic and foreign sales.

Six firms reported foreign research and development activities, with $2.1 million budgeted for that year, or about 1 per cent of all their research allocations.

The association notes that the $227-million expenditure this year will be a 276 per cent increase over the $60 million the same companies spent in 1951. In the decade the industry has found and profitably developed many prescription drugs since called miracles and now regarded as commonplace.

This year's expanding research activity is attributed by Dr. Austin Smith, association president, "to the highly competitive search for breakthrough discoveries to combat many common ailments—notably cancer and cardiovascular disease."

Pay Health Care For All 310,000 Demand of UAW

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union demanded today that General Motors Corp. take over the full cost of health care insurance for 310,000 UAW members in GM plants.

The union also asked that the company place 34,000 retired hourly workers and their dependents under the hospital-surgical-medical program. Workers pay the full cost of medical care insurance upon retirement. The company and employees share the cost on a 50-50 basis during active employment.

Similar demands to expand the health care programs will be made by the UAW on Ford, Chrysler and American Motors in current labor contract negotiations.

In negotiations at Ford Tuesday the union bargaining team demanded a higher level of pension benefits coupled with optional early retirement at age 60.

It also proposed a lump-sum payment upon retirement and pension provisions for workers' widows. In resuming negotiations at Chrysler Tuesday the union demanded changes in the contract to prevent supervisory personnel from taking over the jobs of hourly workers.

James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, showed up Tuesday for the resumption of talks with General Motors on a new contract to cover 24,000 employees represented by the IUE in GM appliance plants. The talks had been in recess since the union's opening presentation June 29.

Rockefeller Says There's Room for Views of Others

By ROBERT T. GRAY
BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller says the Republican party has room for both his views and those of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

"One of the strengths of democracy," the governor said in an interview, "is that it is not afraid of a wide range of views."

Rockefeller is a leading exponent of liberal Republicanism, while Goldwater is the chief advocate of Republican conservatism.

The two men, along with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, are the leading candidates for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Rockefeller commented last night during a two-day visit in which he is dealing with various governmental problems of this Southern Tier area.

His schedule for the visit, which ends today, contained 20 public appearances.

Today's activities opened with a breakfast for education leaders. Also on the schedule were an inspection of Binghamton's urban renewal area, visits to state offices, Binghamton State Hospital, the North-South Expressway and a rehabilitation center.

Rockefeller will wind up activities tonight at a town meeting, where he will answer questions from the public.

Rockefeller, who will seek reelection next year, has denied there was any political significance in his trip.

In discussing national affairs, Rockefeller said the Republicans did not want a monolithic party, that the party should reflect the hopes, feelings and aspirations of people, and should not concentrate on a single viewpoint.

Used to Confusion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — By coincidence, the families of Jack K. Smith and Jack P. Smith located in apartments at the same address here. There followed the inevitable mixups in mail and telephone calls.

Then each family had a daughter. Good friends now and needing more space with the newest arrivals, the families moved. They're again living in the same apartment building—but this time by plan.

Topsy Turvy

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—Passersby sometimes get the impression a tree is growing upside down in Dr. T. Edwin O'Brien's yard. The family explains that it isn't even a tree, but an euonymus vine planted by Louis G. Merritt, the home's former owner. Because of a kind of "trunk" and downward pointing "branches," the vine gives the appearance of an upside down tree.

Student Jailed, Brandished Air Pistol in Accord

A 20-year-old Union College student was committed to the Ulster County Jail Wednesday under peculiar circumstances involving the alleged brandishing of a pistol-type air gun in the Accord area, accompanied by threats.

Donald Odquist of Yonkers, reported to be a student at the Schenectady college, was arrested by Trooper Michael Mahoney of the Ellenville state police and Investigator Edward Shannon, BCL, of the Kingston barracks, on complaint of residents of the Accord area.

Odquist was picked up on a charge of disorderly conduct and committed to jail by Justice of the Peace Raymond Lawrence of Accord in lieu of $200 bail.

Trooper Mahoney told The Freeman that Odquist left his Yonkers home Wednesday morning, taking the family automobile apparently without his parents' permission. He packed blankets, a small stove and other equipment in the car as if he planned to camp out.

Later in the day he drove into the farm of Joseph Lee of Accord "at a high rate of speed," jumped out of the car and allegedly waved the air pistol, a type of gun which fires pellets, and used threatening language.

With Lee at the time were his children and a man, unidentified, operating a tractor on the farm. Lee took the air gun from Odquist who then left. Lee called the Ellenville state police barracks to report the incident.

In the meantime Odquist drove to Carle's Market, Accord, about a mile from the Lee farm, and began "causing a disturbance" there. Odquist was reported to have told Edward Carle, proprietor of the store, and others in the store at the time that he had taken his gun, implying that they intended to use it in a way which might be harmful to residents of the area.

The state police barracks received a second call reporting Odquist's odd behavior — this time from Carle.

Commenting on the incident, Trooper Mahoney told The Freeman, "Everybody was shook up for a while."

Economy Gains During Quarter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's economy advanced at an annual rate of about $12 billion in the April-June quarter, making a brisk recovery from the winter's recession low.

On the basis of past calculations, this would mean that the gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced—reached a record annual rate of about $312 billion in the second quarter.

However, the level of the GNP statistics is altered every July on the basis of income statistics compiled only once a year. This can result in a change, up or down, of as much as $2 billion.

Thus, while the official GNP estimate will be about $312 billion for the second quarter, the first, the figure could range anywhere from $310 billion to $314 billion.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said last month the GNP should reach an annual rate of about $330 billion by the fourth quarter. By the end of 1962, he said, it should total about $370 billion. That would represent an 8 per cent gain over the currently forecast level of $335 billion for all of 1961.

ILA Strike Spreads

TORONTO (AP)—Longshoremen's strike in Toronto and nearby Hamilton moved west to another port today and threatened to spread to other Great Lakes ports handling ocean ships.

Stevenson in Sarnia announced they would not handle cargo for ocean vessels diverted from struck ports.

A total of 700 members of the International Longshoremen's Association here and in Hamilton are on strike against truck companies serving ocean ships.

Lake shipping is not involved. Union officials said the main dispute concerns extra crews for loading jobs and the amount of cargo to be handled by mechanical lifts.

Colorado Manhunt

Slayer Stalked In Mountains; Officers Dead

KREMMLING, Colo. (AP)—A hundred officers, some with sub-machineguns, stalked through the rugged northwestern Colorado mountains searching today for a fast-draw gunman accused of killing two officers and wounding two others.

State Patrol Lt. Hiram Short, 49, of Craig, Colo., and Undersheriff John Clark, 68, of Eagle County, died Wednesday night from bullets fired by the tousle-haired desperado.

2 Others Shot
Sheriff Chancy Van Pelt, 54, of Grand County, and Robert Hoover of Grand Junction, a State Game and Fish Department education officer, were hospitalized at Denver with serious bullet wounds.

The slayer, described as in his early 20s, was driving a car purchased July 3 at Sioux City, Iowa, by a man giving the name of Delmar Dean Spooner of Storm Lake, Iowa. Officers said Spooner left Storm Lake July 6.

Officers said they believed they trapped the gunman in a ravine near State Bridge, Colo., about 15 miles southwest of Kremmling near Piney Creek. The area, popular with fishermen, is about 130 miles northwest of Denver.

Abandoned Car
The gunman abandoned his car after a gun fight in which Clark was wounded in the jaw. Some officers said the desperado may have been wounded before fleeing on foot into the mountain fastness.

Officers pieced together this sequence of events:
Hoover, driving westward on U.S. Highway 40, stopped to assist a motorist whose car appeared to be stalled. Hoover became suspicious after the driver failed to produce adequate identification and radioed for the sheriff and the state patrolman.

The three questioned the motorist for a few minutes and decided to take him to Kremmling for further examination. They started walking to Van Pelt's car when the motorist drew a pistol and fired rapidly at Short and Van Pelt.

After wounding them, the gunman fired on Hoover, who had rolled into a roadside pit in an effort to escape the shooting. The gunman raced away in his car, driving through Kremmling and turning southward on a road toward Eagle County.

Sheriff Henry Knuth and his undersheriff, Clark, drove northward to intercept the fleeing man. When they attempted to stop the approaching car, he

Probers Mum On Denver Air Tragedy

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Tight-lipped federal and company investigators tried to pinpoint responsibility today for a United Air Lines DC8 jet liner landing crash that killed 17 persons Tuesday.

Of the 122 aboard, at least 50 received hospital treatment and 38 suffered minor injuries. None was in critical condition.

United imposed a complete blackout on any explanations of all seven crew members who escaped or from other company employees. UAL President W. A. Patterson, here from Chicago, refused to answer any queries from newsmen.

Federal investigators turned aside reporters' questions with a cryptic "There's nothing to say." Fire Chief Allie Feldman of Denver snapped back at critics who alleged there was delay in fire-fighting equipment reaching the crash scene.

"It didn't make any difference how many pieces of fire equipment we had there we couldn't have saved those 16 people," Feldman said. Those 16 passengers died in the flaming wreckage. The 17th victim was a Denver city engineer.

He was crushed when the mammoth airliner, reporting a hydraulic system malfunction, skidded from a runway at an estimated speed of 120 to 140 m.p.h. and slammed into his truck, in use on a construction project.

British Taking More Troops Out Of Kuwait Area

KUWAIT (AP)—More of the British troops that were rushed into Kuwait to defend it from Iraq's annexation threat have been ordered to withdraw.

Britain ordered the pullout Wednesday of more than 1,000 commandos and several hundred other troops. Their departure will leave 3,000 of the 5,000 troops Britain rushed in two weeks ago at the request of Sheikh Abdullah as-Salim as-Sabah, Kuwait's ruler.

Kuwait told a meeting of the Arab League in Cairo it would ask for withdrawal of all British forces if Iraq drops its claims, or if the league sends Arab forces to Kuwait to replace the British.

The United Arab Republic told the meeting that while it approves sending Arab units to Kuwait, it felt states bordering Israel—which include the U.A.R.—should keep their troops ready for any conflict with their Jewish neighbor.

U.A.R. delegate Mohammed Hassan el Zayat said troops for Kuwait therefore should come from other Arab nations.

Hold Jersey Man For Bogus Checks

A man who has been sought throughout the United States for allegedly passing scores of worthless checks was picked up Wednesday by police authorities on a federal warrant.

Leslie F. Schurck, 24, of Westfield, N. J., was arrested by Investigator Michael Lisman, BCL, of the Ellenville state police, Town of Fallsburgh police and the FBI on a federal warrant charging him with interstate transportation of stolen property.

Wanted Elsewhere
Schurck was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Thomas Sacoman of Kingston and remanded to the Ulster county jail pending further disposition.

Lisman told The Freeman that Schurck is wanted in many parts of the country for passing forged checks—particularly in the Southwest.

Lisman said the man has passed some 60 checks ranging in amounts from about $80 to $150 each.

Most of these have been cashed in air lines, supermarkets, department stores, etc.

When he was picked up he was driving a 1961 Thunderbird obtained under fictitious circumstances from Hertz, Inc., an automobile rental service at LaGuardia Field, L. I. He has been driving the car for the past six weeks.

Hertz, Inc., is reportedly seeking criminal warrants against Schurck.

Ayub, President Complete Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pakistan President Ayub Khan and President Kennedy held their third and final conference today. Kashmir, Pakistan's relations with India, and other problems were reported to figure in the talks.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk met the Pakistani leader at the entrance to the White House and escorted him to Kennedy's oval study.

Both Sides Pleased
"Both sides are pleased with the outcome of the talks," Rusk told newsmen.

"We have gone around the entire world situation," Rusk said, "and the problems confronting the Western allies have been thoroughly examined."

Strong assurances of continued U.S. economic support for Pakistan's $5-billion five-year plan were expected to come from the meeting.

The two leaders were to discuss the Kashmir question at their second White House meeting Wednesday but concentrated instead on Pakistan's economic development problems.

Pakistan officials made no secret of their desire that the United States take a more prominent role in inducing India to meet with Pakistan at a conference table to arrange a settlement of the Kashmir dispute.

Pakistan has held out for a plebiscite conducted by the United Nations to decide whether Kashmir belongs to Pakistan or India. India has turned down the plebiscite and incorporated two-thirds of Kashmir into the Indian National Union.

Strike Call Authorized

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—Leaders of Aluminum Workers Local 420 were authorized today to set a date for a strike against the Aluminum Company of America plant here, if other locals join in a nationwide walkout against ALCOA.

Members of Local 420 gave their leaders the go-ahead to call a strike "at the most effective date," by near-unanimous votes at meetings Wednesday night and this morning, the union said.

The union represents about 1,750 of ALCOA's approximately 3,100 employees here.

Bees Snarl Traffic

SAINT-ETIENNE, France (AP)—Forty beehives bounced off a truck near Saint-Etienne Tuesday and a swarm of angry bees formed a menacing cloud over the highway.

A professional beekeeper was summoned and sprayed the bees with a tranquilizing liquid. After two hours the bees had returned to their hives, and traffic was back to normal.

Expanding School Market Offers Growth Prospects

Q "In our town, the question of new schools comes up repeatedly. It is always a struggle to keep up our educational facilities, it seems. Since this is the case elsewhere, aren't there some good growth investments in the school equipment business?" — J. P.

A) I know how you and your fellow townspeople feel. The need for education is growing, and facilities are getting costlier. Some additional federal aid may be forthcoming, but regardless of this action, I believe that the school equipment market will continue to expand.

Educational spending last year was twice that for any year prior to World War 2, and it could rise another 100 per cent by 1970. By then, enrollments are expected to double the 1950 level of 27 million.

I can mention three stocks that should gain as school needs expand. Cenco Instruments (ASE), in laboratory equipment, has had an extremely good record. The recent correction in scientific stocks has brought Cenco into a more reasonable range, although I would prefer to buy it a little more cheaply. Brunswick (NYSE), aggressively managed and well-diversified second and school furniture sales, and the stock does not look overpriced.

I also like Jostens (OTC), participating heavily in the school market from an entirely different angle — class rings and graduation items. Jostens will soon be coming down into the low-priced range as a result of the three-for-one split.

Q "I would like to buy shares of Columbia Pictures. Is this a good stock?" — F. M.

A) Columbia Pictures (NYSE) displayed some strength earlier this year after a prolonged period of indecision. I suspect that the basis for this moderate advance was not so much the stock's merits as it was the general market upturn.

If you wish to invest in the motion picture industry, I suggest that you consider United Artists (NYSE). This is a higher grade stock and, in my opinion, has better prospects.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, visiting West Berlin to demonstrate the close links between the isolated city and West Germany, conferred with Mayor Willy Brandt and other city government officials.

In Paris, the United States, Britain and France consulted their allies in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on their replies to the Soviet note of June 4 threatening to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany this year. There was no indication when the replies would be delivered, but De Gaulle's speech and the West German note made clear the other allies would join in firm opposition to the Soviet attempt to remove the Western protection from West Berlin.

Ike Doubts War

In Gettysburg, Pa., former President Eisenhower declared that a Western surrender to Khrushchev on Berlin would be far worse than the British-French surrender of the Czech Sudetenland to Hitler at Munich.

Eisenhower told Paul Martin of the Gannett News Service that he firmly believes the Soviets do not want an all-out war over Berlin or anything else but will use other methods to achieve their ends.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Midsummer meat menus are mixed at supermarkets this week—a few fryers, a little lamb, a bit of beef and some smoked ham.

Fryers are featured in the East and Midwest, with prices as low as 25 cents a pound, while leg of lamb is at bargain levels in New England, New York, the Midwest and Far West. Lamb chops and a 29-cent a pound combination of lamb chops and stew meat also are available in scattered areas.

Beef is about evenly divided between such bargain cuts as chuck roast and steak and the more expensive rib roasts and round steak. Ham sales are mostly in the East.

Sirloin steak is higher in a few places, but the real items to watch out for this week are pork chops and eggs. The former are up 4 to 10 cents a pound.

Eggs, up for the third straight week, are 2 to 4 cents a dozen higher.

More and more fresh fruit and vegetables keep coming to market.

Best buys among vegetables are beets, broccoli, carrots, celery, cucumbers, endive, escarole, onions, radishes, miscellaneous leafy cooking greens, lettuce, parsley, peppers, potatoes and fava beans (king-sized snap beans).

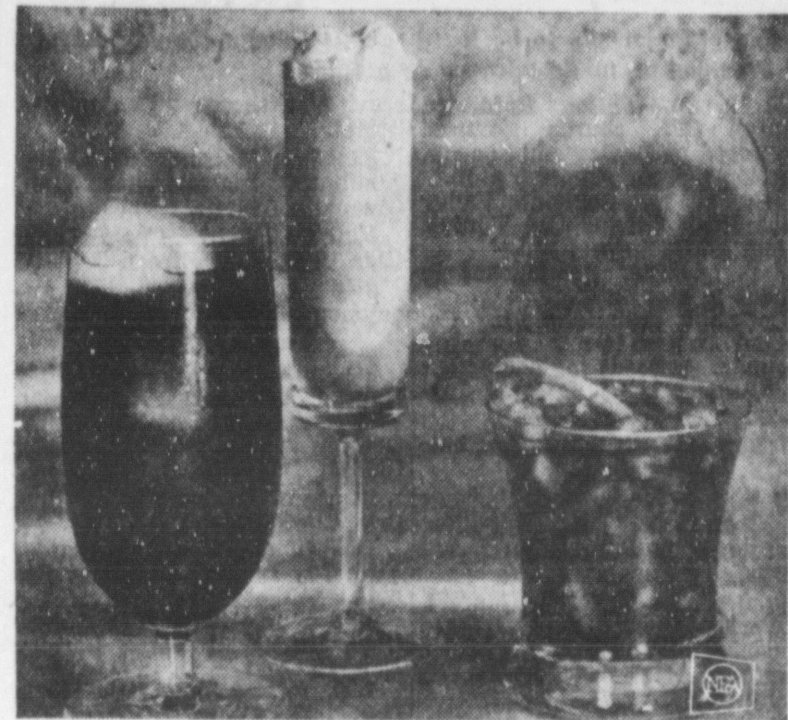

Good buys are the regular size snap beans, cabbage, corn, eggplant, okra, watercress and peas. Cantaloupes, mangoes and sour cherries are rated outstanding among fruits, while the good buy list includes watermelons, blueberries, honeydews, Persian melons, limes, peaches, strawberries, blackberries, red currants, gooseberries, grapes, plums, nectarines and bananas.

After all is said and done, it's time to break up the party. — LIZ

Viennese Velvet—Dessert Beverage

GLASSES FULL of summer pleasure feature coffee. From left: Iced Coffee; Viennese Velvet; Coffee Mist. M-m-m-m!

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Coffee makes perfect summer-time coolers. For example, Coffee Mist:

To make, pour strong coffee into old-fashioned glasses filled to top with crushed ice. Top with twist of lemon peel. Use espresso coffee, if you prefer.

Viennese Velvet
For six servings: One quart of vanilla ice cream, five measuring cups of hot double-strength coffee, whipped cream.

Place a scoop of ice cream in the bottom of each tall glass. Pour hot coffee carefully over the ice cream until glass is about two-thirds full. Add another scoop of ice cream and fill glasses with coffee. Garnish with whipped cream and a dash of nutmeg.

Use parfait spoons for the first half of the dessert-beverage. Drink second half.

Instant Iced Coffee

In a tall glass, place twice as much coffee as you would use for an average cup. Add cold water until glass is about one-quarter full. Stir until coffee is dissolved. Add ice cubes to top, more water and stir thoroughly.

Quick Double-Strength Iced Coffee

Brew coffee double-strength by using half the amount of water to the usual amount of coffee. Pour hot coffee over ice cubes in tall glasses. The extra strong coffee allows for dilution.

Coffee Ice Cubes

Brew extra breakfast coffee and allow it to cool. When cool, pour into refrigerator tray and freeze into coffee ice cubes, turning temperature control to coldest point for rapid freezing. Iced coffee can then be made any time by pouring regular strength hot coffee over cubes.

Was It a Demo Jump or Push?

Much Is Left Unsaid On Levitt's Entering Gracie Mansion Fight

By ROBERT T. GRAY
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Did he jump or was he pushed?

Was it State Comptroller Arthur Levitt's own decision to enter the New York City mayoral fight, or was it forced upon him by the leaders who control the Democratic party in the state?

Levitt's new role as the organization candidate fighting Mayor Robert F. Wagner for the mayoral nomination is, in many ways, a contradictory one.

Reluctant Candidate

The contradictions give great weight to the view that Levitt entered the race reluctantly, perhaps because of hints that non-cooperation with the organization would bring reprisals.

The chief leaders backing Levitt are Carmine G. DeSapio, Charles A. Backley and Joseph T. Sharkey, party leaders, respectively, of Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn.

Those three counties have nearly half of the 3.7 million enrolled Democratic voters in the state, and the leaders wield comparable power in state affairs.

It would be within their power to deny Levitt the party's nomination for governor next year, the State Supreme Court judgeship he reportedly wants or even re-nomination as comptroller.

The leaders were in a difficult position when they turned to Levitt.

Wagner was publicly flouting them and even calling for the political destruction of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan organization headed by DeSapio.

Levitt Most Likely

The leaders wanted their own candidate, and Levitt was the most likely one available. He was the only Democrat to weather the party fight against Rockefeller in 1958. He is a resident of Brooklyn and became known in New York City as a member and president of the Board of Education, before becoming comptroller in 1955.

An agreement was reached and Levitt announced that, while he had not sought the occasion to run, "I decided to make the race only after receiving assurances of widespread support from civic and business leaders and all elements of the Democratic party."

But much was left unsaid.

Throughout the 1960 presidential campaign in New York, Levitt carefully conducted his own operation independently of the party leaders and the various factions with whom they were fighting.

He appeared to be seeking the role of the mediator who would resolve the quarrels that have rent New York State Democrats for almost three years.

In DeSapio Camp Now

Levitt also appeared to be working diligently to avoid any contact with DeSapio lest it prove fatal in any bid for the nomination for governor.

The Republican argument that former Gov. Averell Harriman was dominated by DeSapio was a factor in Harriman's defeat three years ago.

But Levitt now has entrenched himself firmly in the camp of the leaders, who include DeSapio.

Levitt said that "I am not obligated . . . to any person."

But Republicans are hardly to drop the "bossism" issue in this year's election after using it so effectively in 1958.

If Levitt loses the primary, he will damage his case for any future bid for the nomination for governor.

If he wins the primary he will be the candidate of a badly divided party.

If he lost the election, he would suffer a sharp setback to his chances of being nominated for governor.

The political vise in which Levitt, normally a super-cautious politician, has placed himself is not one that many men in public life would try out.

SUBMARINE LOVER—Charles McCoy loved submarines so much that he offered his services gratis if he could get a job working around them. The 14-year-old New Rochelle, N.Y., lad applied for "messenger, clean up boy, or just plain anything for no salary." Although company officials turned down his offer, they did invite him to take part in the launching of the Polaris-firing Thomas A. Edison at Groton, Conn. He had the time of his life, above, helping workmen knock out the ship's shorings.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. J. Arnold Lipsett, Wallkill, were among the many out of town people coming to the reservoir country Sunday. They were accompanied by their guests as follows: Mrs. J. A. Austin, Columbia, S. C.; Beatrice Medley, Walden, and Mrs. L. H. Thomas of Lakeland, Fla. Mr. Lipsett, a World War I veteran, is a member of the instructors staff at the Wallkill prison.

Also here Sunday was Edna Rowe who now makes her home in Kingston. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cudney whose home on Winchell Mountain is the Clement Chase place.

Mrs. Patrick Kelly and two daughters of Inwood, L. I., are at their summer home near the old state road.

Gerald Sorensen, Route 28, has employment at Kingston Hospital.

The Burton Dudley, or former Bertha Mackey residence on the Reservoir Road is reported sold to out of town people.

Vera Kimsche of New York and Woodstock was a caller in the village Sunday.

A group of reservoir department employees who motored to New York Wednesday to see the Yankee-Cleveland baseball game was made up as follows: William Kenoch, Harold Smith, Bob Vollmer, Jesse Hulsair and Lester Dennis.

Willis Powell, an employee of Beechford Farms for some time, plans to move with his family to the house across Route 28 next to the Susie Winchell place.

Cow-mother of the year up in the mountains appears to be Everell Dewell's 29-year-old "Snowball" who recently delivered her 25th calf.

Ira May Marlatt, Olive Bridge, is reported to have bought the Englert house along the east side of the Ridge Road. The building, built last year, adjoins the home of Ebbe Andre, uptown Kingston woman, on the north.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ruckert motored to Brooklyn Thursday to see Mrs. Ruckert's mother, Anna Trump, 89, who has visited Shokan upon a number of occasions in past years.

What's in a Name?

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — The speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives, James A. Lantz, says jokes about his law firm here—Dagger and Lantz—have made him name-conscious.

He reports hearing of these Ohio firms: Lease and Lease, and Mahon (pronounced "man") and Lady. Lantz also tells of recent meeting Walter Sippey of Zanesville, Ohio, and his wife, Mrs. Sippey.

Woodstock Library Fair's 34th Edition Slated July 27

With only three weeks remaining until the 34th annual Woodstock Library Fair, fair chairmen are busily preparing for one of the most colorful events of the summer season at Woodstock. On Thursday, July 27, between the hours of 11 a. m. and 6 p. m., more than 10,000 persons are expected to visit the Library grounds to take advantage of the tremendous bargains and spend a most delightful afternoon in general. In case of rain, the fair will be held on Friday, July 28.

As one of the highlights of the entertainment program, youngsters may see the world of magic unfold before their very eyes, as magician Jack Marquardt performs his specialties. Again this year, a cafeteria lunch will be set up by the brook, where a varied array of tasty morsels may be purchased. Fairgoers will find this a most popular spot, giving them a chance to rest and ease their hunger pangs, before going on in search of further bargains.

Mrs. Helen Rainsford will be on hand to draw her pastel portraits, which she does so well, along with Carew Rice, who is an absolute marvel at cutting silhouette portraits. These very talented people have very little time to spare during the course of a Library Fair afternoon, so it is best to see them early in the day for an appointment.

New Features Added

Each year the fair seems to have added something new to its many exciting features, and this year is no exception. Along with the regular tables overflowing with bargains, will be the very exciting Antique and Quality Table, where that unusual little "something" may be found at a very nominal price.

Not to be forgotten is one of the biggest features of the entire program, Great Expectations. Prizes will be awarded all during the afternoon, the grand prize being a compact car, the Austin 850—Mini Minor. Tickets for this event may be purchased from any member of the Great Expectations committee.

July 27 promises to be a very exciting day. Mark your calendar, tie a string on your finger, but don't miss this fabulous program.

Grievance Day Attracts Large Taxpayer Group

Woodstock taxpayers descended on town hall in record numbers to protest increased assessments on Grievance Day Tuesday.

Veteran observers said the turnout was the largest in the history of the township. The hearing conducted by the town assessors extended far beyond the fixed hours of 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. At 1 p. m., more than 50 persons were still waiting to lodge their protests.

It had been predicted that because of substantial assessment hikes on various properties there would be a much larger turnout than the desultory attendance of other years. However, the final turnout was much larger than had been anticipated.

The taxpayer protest was triggered by increased assessments on several hundred parcels in the township. The increases ranged from modest amounts to $1,000 in some cases.

Tavelli Opens Summer Classes

For the second summer classes in painting and drawing have begun in the old Maverick Theater. Louis Tavelli, Woodstock artist, is conducting a life drawing class for beginners and advanced students and painting classes in his studio which makes use of the stage whose boards sprang many a young star to fame. The creative spirit which still hovers over the old theater will now inspire and enrich the talents of the young as well as the mature artists who now work hopefully beneath its roof.

This season's school schedule offers life drawing classes on Tuesday and Thursday nights, hours from 8 to 10 in the evening, and painting classes on Thursday from 9 a. m. to 12:30 and Saturday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Tavelli's art teaching experience is extensive, and this year he has been teaching painting and design at the Cooper Union Art School in New York besides holding an evening drawing class at his home on the Maverick Road. The four years previous he spent the winters teaching at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Prior to this he has taught in the School of Design at the University of North Carolina.

Association Member

Louis Tavelli is an active member of the Woodstock Artists Association. He was one of the original members of the Zena Gallery Group here. He has exhibited in a number of New York galleries, among them the Berthe Schaeffer Gallery, the Stable, the Camino, the Washington Irving. He has had one man shows at the Hacker Gallery and at the Museum of Art, University of Michigan, and last summer here in the Mart Gallery.

The artist-teacher's personal statement of art is through the avenue of abstract impressionism. In his teaching he endeavors to develop his students' originality and individual mode of interpretation—based always upon sound principles of drawing and painting. Arrangements for classes can be made with Tavelli by calling him.

Also featured on the program will be the once-over-lightly view of the development of the cinema seen through the archive work of the Museum of Modern Art with scenes from "A Birth of a Nation," "The Jazz Singer," "All Quiet on the Western Front," "Henry V," "Shoeshine" and others. ## 25 Scouts, Leaders Leave for N. Mex. Camp on Monday

Twenty-five Boy Scouts and four leaders will leave Saturday at 5:15 a. m. from Dietz Stadium for Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico. They are traveling by chartered bus.

Four days and 1,974 miles later they will climb down and gaze at a sign shining in the bright New Mexico sun: Philmont Scout Ranch. Ahead of them will lie 12 days of horseback riding, mountain climbing, burro packing, and camping on the Cimarronchito River, Uraque Mesa and Waite Phillips Mountain.

The delegation of older Scouts and Explorers will be under the adult leadership of John Carlson and George Poythress, Saugerties; David Bright, Blue Mountain; and Oliver Tweedy, Hurley.

Boys who will participate in this Scouting "High Adventure" Expedition include: Peter Tongue, Joseph Kearney, John Cranston, Kingston; Allen Wolven, Allen Gardner, Kenneth Magyar, Saugerties; Donald Schonger, Edward Bress, Robert Cairo, Walter Friedlander, Kerhonskon; James Tweedy and Vaughan Askue, Hurley; Joseph Biegen, Catskill; Richard Hitchcock, Maplecrest; Richard Doran, Woodstock; Richard Loveless, Larry Hughson, Roger Segelken, Joseph Rotella, Phoebe; Richard Kahil, Mt. Tremper; Daniel Van Valkenburgh, Shandaken; John Morris, Irving Ackerman, New Paltz; Robert Mooney, Douglas Wood, Walkill.

The Philmont Ranch is a National Scout camping area comprised of 127,000 acres of rugged western country located on the slopes of the Sangre de Cristo range of the Great Rocky Mountain chain. The 200 square mile ranch is owned and operated by the National Council, Boy Scouts of America. The ranch was given to the Boy Scouts of America in 1941 by Waite Phillips of Tulsa, Okla.

The Rip Van Winkle Council-sponsored expedition represents the largest group ever to attend the New Mexico Scout Ranch from this area.

The group prepped for the stay at Philmont by conducting training hikes. The last hike July 1 to 3 covered from the Platte Clove Church near Tannersville to the Woodstock School and outdoor camping conditions were experienced by the group.

The trip itinerary will include stopovers at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio; Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri; Schilling Air Force Base, Kansas; and the renowned Koshare Indian Kiva in LaJunta, Colorado, where a dance exhibition will be staged by the Koshare Scout troop, widely acclaimed throughout North America for their authentic exhibitions.

Ottawa Might Ask Ballot on Senate Reform

OTTAWA (AP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative government today faced the prospect of another rebuff from the Liberal-dominated Senate, increasing speculation that Diefenbaker might call a general election soon on the issue of Senate reform.

All indications were that the Senate Banking Committee would urge the Senate to reject the government bill to remove James E. Coyne as governor of the Bank of Canada. The Senate's Liberal majority was expected to heed the committee's recommendation.

It would be the government's second defeat in the upper house this week. The Senate refused Wednesday to withdraw an amendment to a government tariff bill. The House of Commons, where Diefenbaker's Conservatives have a large majority, has rejected the amendment and Diefenbaker contends the Senate must keep its hands off government financial legislation originating in Commons.

The prime minister warned last week that if the Senate didn't yield on the tariff issue, he would put the question of Senate reform to the voters "sooner or later." Senators are appointed for life, and the Liberals control the Senate through appointments by former Liberal governments.

The House of Commons has a maximum life of five years—until 1963 for the present house—but the prime minister can call an election any time he wants to go to the country for a mandate on an issue.

Regardless of the Senate action, the government will get Coyne out of the national bank. In a hearing before the Senate Banking Committee Wednesday, he announced he will resign whether Parliament approves the government's removal bill or not. But he climaxed 13 hours of testimony with an emotional appeal for Senate rejection of the ouster legislation so that he could quit "in honor."

The government accused Coyne

Saugerties Men Avert Blaze in Empty Dwelling

The quick action of two Saugerties men averted a fire of serious consequence in a populated section of the Village of Saugerties Wednesday night when they pulled a burning mattress from an empty house, village police reported.

Fred Rose and Raymond Tietter climbed into the empty dwelling through a window when they saw smoke coming from the residence. They discovered a mattress on fire and removed it to the yard.

At 8:45 p. m. Saugerties police received a report that two young boys were seen coming out of the window of an empty house on McDonald and Montgomery Streets, owned by Henry and Gertrude Kellner of Pine Bush.

After the boys left, Rose noticed smoke coming from the dwelling and with the aid of Tietter removed the smoldering mattress.

Village Patrolmen John Hopf and Rex Dean Jr., checked the rest of the structure. The boys were not immediately identified.

Bates is reported to be suffering from exhaustion.

Wagner Renames Judge to Bench, Ties With Foes

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner—target of a charge that he is pressuring city employees to support his reelection bid—says he is "not going to let politics stand in the way of the reappointment of a good judge."

"That is the way the other side would play it," he added. Wagner made the comment Wednesday in announcing that he was reappointing Special Sessions Justice Doris I. Byrne to a full 10-year term. Justice Byrne has close ties with the Bronx Democratic organization, which, along with all four other county organizations in the city, is opposing Wagner.

The mayor's comment came a few hours after State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, the Democratic organization choice for mayor, brought up the pressure issue. Levitt said in a statement that the jobs of "countless numbers" of city employees would be endangered unless they supported Wagner.

Two Democratic organization district leaders said they had resigned from their jobs in the office of Manhattan Borough President Edward R. Dudley at Dudley's request. Dudley, a Wagner supporter, later denied he had asked for the resignations.

2-Year Community College Basis For Growth of State University

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two articles on the State University of New York.)

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The two-year community college is the basic element of the expansion of the State University of New York, says the university president, Thomas Hamilton.

Ten years ago, the total enrollment in community colleges was 4,800. The 1960-61 total was 13,715.

Ten years hence, the university estimates, it will be 64,000.

21 Scattered in State

Twenty-one such schools are scattered throughout the state at present, compared with the eight in the university system originally.

Their role is changing along with that of the entire State University, from limited, specialized schools to an integral part of the education system.

There are two main parts to this change: 1. Community colleges are beginning, on a limited scale, to serve as "feeders" to four-year institutions. Students who feel, after two years of community college, that they want to go on are being prepared to transfer, to the junior level.

2. Liberal arts courses are receiving greater emphasis in curriculums of community colleges, partially to help students who wish to complete college.

At present, transfers from community colleges to four-year schools are being made on a more or less experimental scale within the university.

But there is no reason why students may not eventually go on to private schools, says Hamilton.

Students Have Quality

"Private colleges are growing increasingly aware of the quality of the community college student," he said.

The community college offers the economies of higher education while living at home, he pointed out.

For the student aiming for a trade, it offers a wide range of specialized fields — electronics, refrigeration, business, automobile mechanics and others.

In addition to economy, a student hoping for a four-year course may determine whether he or she is suited for college.

While the State University plans to convert its present, teachers' colleges into four-year, liberal arts institutions at which community college graduates could complete their education, the teacher-training will continue to have priority.

The university expects New York youths to seek admission to the community colleges in increasing numbers.

Most of Local Origin

These colleges must be of local origin. The university may not create them. A county or other agency may sponsor a school. The state and the sponsoring agency split construction costs.

Then, the state, sponsoring agency and the student share operating costs. The student's share, in the form of tuition, is about $300 a year.

Tuition in the first two years of a private college would run three times that or more, supporters of the community-college idea noted.

In terming the two-year colleges basic to the expansion of the state University, the university points to the 64,000 students who will have facilities available at low cost for their higher education when the demand reaches that level by 1970.

Refusal on Assessments May Lose School State Aid

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A North-eastern New York school board that refuses to pay for a multi-district school cooperative is unconstitutional, the state education commissioner said.

Three board members and their counsel said they were not members of the cooperative.

The board admitted, however, that it had paid the cooperative since 1955 for services rendered. They insisted, however, that no record of any board action to join the cooperative constituted non-membership.

Cooperatives are formed by a number of school districts to provide such special services as driver education and slow-reader clinics.

The cooperative also covers the Keeseville, Peru and Saranac Lake school districts.

Slate Block Party, Boat Ride, Concert For Esopus Event

Two events will take place this weekend in the Town of Esopus sesquicentennial celebration. Friday evening, a band concert will be held at Ross Park, Port Ewen. Saturday evening, a cafeteria supper and block party will be held at Riffton.

The band concert will be given through the courtesy of the Musicians' Union, Local 215. A 25-piece symphony band under the direction of Marlin E. Morrette will present an hour and a half program. The band has won wide acclaim for its presentations and the Town of Esopus sesquicentennial committee feels that it is fortunate in being able to present the band as one of the events of its celebration. The concert will start at 8 p. m. In the event of rain, the concert will be held at the Town Hall.

The block party Saturday evening will be held on Maple Street, Riffton. The Ladies' Auxiliary of Riffton Fire Department will serve a cafeteria supper at Riffton Firehouse, commencing at 5 p. m. The block party will feature games, contests, entertainment and dancing. Floyd Barranger's orchestra will furnish the music and refreshments will be on sale.

Tuesday, the "Mary Powell" steamboat excursion to New York will take place. The trip will be made by the chartered Day Liner "Peter Stuyvesant" which will traverse the route made famous by the old "Queen of the Hudson."

The vessel will leave New York at 8 a. m. and return at approximately 9:30 p. m. There will be a four-hour layover in New York.

RESEARCH PROVES MILLBROOK'S MIRACLE-MIX GIVES YOU LONGER BREAD-BOX LIFE THAN ORDINARY BREAD

Just to make sure you get genuine Miracle-Mix with longer bread-box life... we've put this  brand on every loaf!

Laboratory tests proved it! Ordinary bread, baked from old-fashioned dough, has big air-holes that speed drying out. But Millbrook's new batter-blending method whips air-holes out...keeps freshness in! Slice after slice...meal after meal...Miracle-Mix comes out of your bread box fresh-tasting, appetizing. Less waste...more good eating...in every loaf!

MIRACLE-MIX WINS IN ALL THREE TESTS. TEXTURE AND MOISTURE TESTS WERE MADE OVER A PERIOD OF FIVE DAYS UNDER BREAD-BOX-TYPE CONDITIONS.

MOISTURE: Ordinary bread lost at least twice as much moisture as Miracle-Mix Bread!

TEXTURE: Miracle-Mix proved much softer than ordinary bread in controlled scientific tests.

TASTE: Consumer taste panels liked Miracle-Mix almost 2-to-1 for flavor over ordinary bread "A".

Newburgh Draws Spotlight, But—

Many Sectors of Nation Move Toward Cut in Welfare, Catching Chiselers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moves to lighten the relief load are under way in many sections of the nation.

They vary in form—putting the able-bodied to work for their dole, cracking down on chiselers, or training unskilled men and women so they can help themselves.

Spotlight on Newburgh

Newburgh, N.Y., has brought the subject of public aid to national attention. The city plans to override state objections and put new rules into effect Saturday. The rules would, among other things:

Make the mother of illegitimate children ineligible for further aid if she has any more children out of wedlock.

Limit welfare recipients, except for the aged, blind and disabled, to three months of assistance in any one year.

Newburgh officials estimated about 5 per cent of the city's 31,000 population is on relief. They contended taxpayers no longer could afford the mounting costs. And City Manager Joseph Mitchell asserted:

"There is a crying need for a reappraisal of the role of welfare in our society."

It's Major Subject

It's a big subject. The unemployed now number 5.6 million. Individuals on general relief rolls total about 1.5 million. Automation is causing concern about the future.

An Associated Press survey showed today that work-for-your-relief programs are becoming widespread but they are far from general in scope. One theory behind them is that a man who has to work for a relief check will look for a better job.

A work policy has been in effect since 1958 in Phillipsburg, N.J. Mayor Arthur W. Paine said every able-bodied man applying for relief is put to work in parks or on roads for $1.50 an hour. His figured the plan has cut welfare costs from about $30,000 a year to around $20,000 last year.

Would Save Billions

"If this system were employed all over, it would save billions of taxpayers' dollars," he said.

How do reliefers react?

A woman welfare recipient went on duty in a library as part of a work relief program set up this year by the Washington State Legislature. She liked it well enough to offer to work longer than necessary to earn her monthly benefits.

The Washington Department of Public Assistance mentioned that case to pinpoint what it called a good response to the program.

$14.5 Million Sliced

The Washington state legislators trimmed $14.5 million from the sum requested by the department for the 1961-63 period. That led, in turn, to a 10 per cent cut in payments to those who receive general and disability assistance and aid to dependent children. The reduction affects almost 60,000 persons.

Eight counties in Oregon required men on welfare rolls to cut brush along highways, prepare surplus food for distribution and clean up fairgrounds this summer.

Keeps Saw Going

Louis Ringette, chairman of the Josephine County Welfare Commission, spoke of a small, elderly man who runs a chain saw in tree-and-brush clearing work. He said:

"You'd think he was getting $5 an hour the way he keeps it going."

Marion, Ill., gave work-for-relief a trial for seven months. Only about half of the eligible workers showed up. The city dropped the program in April of this year but resumed it again last week.

Five years ago Cuyahoga County (Cleveland), Ohio, began a program for retraining employable relief recipients. It hired personnel specialists. They cataloged relief rollers, gave them on-the-job training in county hospitals and other institutions and helped them get work. John J. Schaffer, county welfare director, said more than 1,400 persons have been placed on payrolls. He reckoned the transfer cut the relief load by about $1.5 million.

Other Examples of Training

Cook County (Chicago) operates a training shop where reliefers learn to handle spray paint equipment, sewing and metal working machines and electrical appliances. Last month the center sent 888 persons to private employment.

In a pilot program in Cincinnati, 40 persons who had been on relief for an average of three years were trained for jobs as maids and hotel housemen. These people had cost the state $65,000 a year in direct payments. The training program, costing a total of $850, made them self-sufficient wage earners.

"You can make good citizens of low IQs," commented Mrs. Mary Gorman, director of Ohio's Department of Public Welfare. "They will do things happily that a more intelligent person would not do because he would become bored. They should be taxpayers, not welfare recipients."

Douglas County (Omaha), Neb., has a family rehabilitation program that is starting with a detailed analysis of current welfare cases. The project is sponsored by Omaha's United Community Services (Red Feather) organization and seeks to show what the city—and not just a public agency—can do.

Assistance Is Good

"In other words," said Robert E. Jorlin, county welfare director, "we want to give assistance, not just money."

Texas tightened up its aid-to-dependent-children program, with an appreciable saving. Assigning specialists to make more thorough investigations brought these results: A drop from 24,974 cases involving 78,957 children and $1,768,372 in June, 1959, to 19,652 cases involving 60,586 children and $1,471,914 in June, 1961.

Louisiana enacted a law last year to cut off aid to dependent children to any mother who had an illegitimate child after she drew a welfare check. Action was made retroactive, and 22,500 youngsters were removed from the benefit lists.

But the law also provided that a mother could regain eligibility by proving her home was suitable. One way was by getting married legally. One way or another, all but 4,500 of the children have been restored to the rolls.

Florida also has whittled down its ADC load. Under a 1959 law assistance can be stopped when a family doesn't have a suitable home. The results: A review of 15,000 cases and many voluntary withdrawals.

Rhode Island is stepping up a drive against fraud in the collection of public assistance. A new law there provides stiffer penalties for such deception.

West Virginia has found considerable evidence of cheating in applications, especially in the program for distributing surplus commodities. The chiseling took the form of lies about income and dependents to establish eligibility. Starting this month, applications will include an oath that the information is true.

Broadening of Rules

There have been some steps toward broadening rules.

Connecticut, for example, abolished its "settlement requirement" for assistance. Previously, applicants had to live in the state at least four years, and had to be self-supporting during that time.

California's Legislature recently made aliens eligible for state aid and increased payments and generally liberalized eligibility regulations for various programs.

General relief is a state and local business. But the federal government contributes to other kinds of programs and reserves the right to withhold funds if a state plan doesn't meet its approval.

The Indiana Legislature, in 1961, made the welfare rolls public records, and thus open to inspection. Federal aid was withheld. But the stalemate ended when Sen. William E. Jenner, R-Ind., got a rider attached to an appropriation bill in Congress that sent U.S. assistance to Indiana despite its open-books law.

The spadefoot toad of North America breeds in temporary pools created by heavy rains. The tiny toad eggs may hatch in a day and a half.

Talked About Death, Bolt Kills Fisherman

REIDONDO BEACH, Calif. (AP) — "I expect lots of fishermen get killed," Robert M. Lindeburg said to a friend with whom he was surf casting during a thunderstorm.

Minutes later Lindeburg was dead, struck by lightning.

The friend, Lee J. Scott, who related the conversation later, said that he had agreed with Lindeburg and had suggested they go home. But Lindeburg decided to stay.

Scott said Lindeburg was fishing Wednesday with a steel pole and was barefooted. Scott wore rubber hip boots. As Scott started to leave the beach the bolt struck.

"All of a sudden I was knocked down and it felt as if my hair was frying, sort of sizzling," he said. "When I got up I wasn't hurt, just shaken."

Some 4,900,000 Americans visited Canada during 1960, while 700,000 went south of the border, to Mexico.

Eight Cut Down By Lightning in Southern Barn

CLINTON, N.C. (AP) — The farm workers in the field harvesting tobacco when a typical summer shower started.

The workers, all nine of them, sought refuge in a nearby barn, as they had done before, leaving the cut leaf under a shelter, planning to return to their tasks after the shower ended.

For eight of them, there was no return.

A bolt of lightning smashed down the barn door, seared across the damp ground and cut them down in an instant, leaving no mark on their bodies.

Several other people in the barn were unhurt.

Among the victims was the sharecropper couple operating the simple farmstead, Oscar and Annette Cottle. Another was a 70-year-old Negro woman. The rest were teenagers.

The lone survivor from among the nine was Eugene Daughtry, 16, who was hospitalized for shock. "I guess I was mighty lucky," said the strapping Negro youth.

"I had my head against one corner," he went on, "and I saw the lightning when it came in. Something seemed to hit the back of my head. Then I heard the thunder, and that's all I remember."

The door was knocked off its hinges by the lightning bolt, but the barn was otherwise hardly damaged.

15 Girls Compete In Miami U. S. A.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Fifteen girls ranging from 34-22-35 to 37-24-36, and from student to real estate speculator, compete tonight for the title Miss U. S. A.

They are the girls who survived the first round of judging at the Miss Universe beauty pageant. Twenty-eight others seeking the Miss U. S. A. title were eliminated Wednesday night.

The judges hit a snag at the end. They had four places left to fill and six girls to fill them: Miss Indiana, Miss Kentucky, Miss Michigan, Miss New Jersey, Miss Texas and Miss West Virginia.

After a tense five minutes of balloting, Miss Indiana and Miss Texas were eliminated.

"I'm the shortest (5-foot-3) girl in the contest. I never thought they'd pick me," said Miss West Virginia, 20-year-old Kathy McManaway of Princeton. "I thought they wanted only beautiful, long-legged girls."

Kathy, a college junior, also

Gets Appointment As Manager in IBM Engineer Lab

The appointment of Robert W. Bottomley of Kingston as exploratory engineering manager has been announced by Ralph G. Mork, manager of the IBM Federal Systems Division Command Control Center engineering laboratory here.

In his new post Bottomley will be responsible for the investigation and application of new technologies leading to the development of new products.

Bottomley joined IBM in 1950 as a customer engineering student in Akron, O. He was transferred to the IBM Poughkeepsie engineering organization in 1952 and to early SAGE computer development there in 1953. He was named project engineer at the SAGE experimental sub-sector, Lexington, Mass., in late 1954 and a development engineer in magnetic film memory development at the Command Control Center in early 1956. He was then assigned to the display development area in early 1959, a post he has held until his present appointment.

Bottomley is a graduate of the University of Akron with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering.

He, his wife Ruth and children, Diane, 8, Lawrence, 5, and Robert, 4, reside on Whiteport Road.

The Miss Universe competition will be held this year on Friday and Saturday nights.

Marlene Britsch, 21, of Claremont Harbor, Miss., moved to Mississippi from New Orleans last year and started a real estate business.

Man at Throttle Still Mystified About Happening

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Ernest O. Howard expects to climb back into the cab of his locomotive next week, still mystified why his wife apparently drove her car in front of his speeding train.

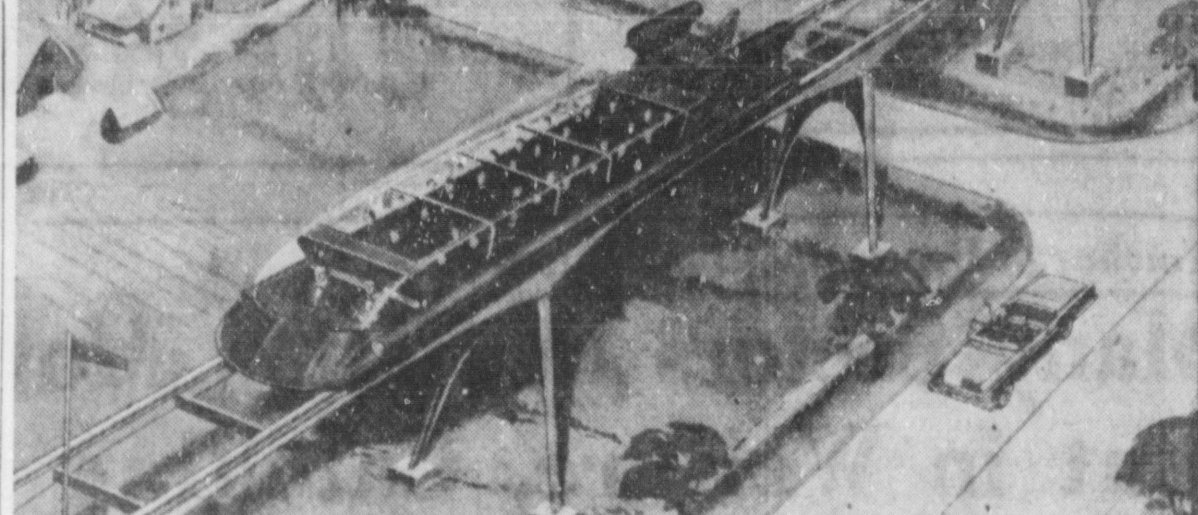

"It's a mystery to me. I actually don't know why she picked my train," said fireman-engineer Howard after his release from a hospital.

No clue to the puzzle comes from Mrs. Howard, 39, who knew her husband was at the throttle of the train. She has remained unconscious since the July 5 crash.

Police hold a note said to have been written by Mrs. Howard before the crash, but have so far refused to talk about it.

Salem Police Chief George Eades said only that it appeared the collision may not have been an accident. No charges are being planned at this time.

Just out of the hospital, where "She was highly nervous."

Howard said he expects to return to work shortly on the same run, probably after a visit to his doctor Friday.

For men who love sharp cheddar

(and women who love them)

As far as we know, MacLaren's Imperial is the oldest brand of cheddar sold in North America, or maybe the world. In Canada, that able Scotsman, the late Mr. Alex MacLaren, started marketing this truly sharp club cheddar (in opal glass pots!) about 1891. When we bought the thriving MacLaren business in 1921 we discontinued the "pots," but never, never changed the quality of the cheddar one whit. Now we're proud to offer it, in a handy new 10-oz. stick, to all devotees of genuinely sharp cheddar. Kraft Foods, Chicago.

P.S. Please bear in mind this is natural cheese, not processed. "Club" simply means that long-long aged cheddars have been blended together so they're SPREADABLE.

Kind But Dishonest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mrs. Esther Jones of Pittsburgh has learned that kind-looking people aren't always honest. She was in a store burdened down with a number of small packages. A man she described as kind-looking approached and said: "What you need is to put all your packages in one big shopping bag." The man went away and came back with a bag. Mrs. Jones gave him the packages and he promptly walked away and never returned. The packages contained two pairs of shoes, a skirt and other wearing apparel.

DROUGHT STRICKEN AREAS RECEIVING FEDERAL AID

JUST LIKE THE THIRTIES — Drought conditions in several north central states have evoked recollections of the bleak 1930s. The federal government has stepped in with aid programs in the hard-hit counties shaded on the newsmag, above. Emergency livestock feeding program is one of the measures scheduled. The entire state of North Dakota is in line for help as all of that state's 53 counties parch under a rainless sky.

Make Mistakes? You Just Betcha

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A letter reads, "I'm from Missouri and want to be shown. Don't you ever make a mistake when you play bridge?"

The answer to the question is that I sure do. They range from errors in judgment all the way to downright idiocy, but there is no law requiring me to mention them.

The game was duplicate. I sat West and was on lead against three no-trump. As you can see the jack of diamonds lead sets the hand, but I opened the deuce of clubs and declarer romped home with 11 tricks.

Mrs. Jacoby was my partner and I will repeat her comments because they are worth listening to. This time, anyway.

She said, "You always tell me to lead from something rather than from nothing. You had nothing in clubs, but you had that great big jack of diamonds."

Unique Modeling Marks Fashion Show; Winter White Favored

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
Associated Press Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who doesn't already know that women are a deceptive lot would get an instant education at the New York couture group's fall style previews this week.

More than 200 female writers here for fashion press week saw the mannequins demonstrate their witchery.

Clothes did the tricks.

For example, on the runway stood Whistler's mother, shoulders bent wearily under the weight of a huge fringed white shawl, a demure white skirt reaching her toes. Then as suddenly as she could whip off the shawl she turned into somebody's sultry granddaughter in a décolleté dinner gown that even a non-Whistler would whistle at.

Time and again models strode the runway in Monte-Sano's "poor girl" cloth coats—big woolly plaids not too expensive looking for a trip to the Internal Revenue office. Yet for the walk back they were rich girls, with coats reversed to mink, nutria and cat fur sides, proving you can always hide money in the lining.

Fabrics in the show were foolers too. Coats that looked like politically historical vicuna were not. Materials quilted to seem like karakul fur had not a hair. Dresses that appeared to be knit or jersey or cottons were something else again.

There was no fooling anyone about color trends this year, however. Designers Jane Derby, Monte-Sano and Branel showed their partiality to forest greens, deep navies, and black and brown combinations.

And while, once reserved for brides and summertime tans, is a snowy favorite for winter with each designer. But then fashions for fall and winter are as contrary as they are deceptive.

In some states, a permit is required by law for burning brush or debris.

New Paltz College Expands Program; Other Improvements

In September of this year, the State University College of Education at New Paltz will begin preparation of high school teachers in the fields of English, mathematics, the sciences, and social studies, according to an announcement made this week by Dr. William J. Haggerty, President of the College.

In making the announcement, Dr. Haggerty emphasized that this major addition to the curriculum is the second important change in recent months in the expanding overall program of the College.

In September, 1960, the College at New Paltz was authorized by the State University Board of Trustees and the Board of Regents to offer a curriculum in liberal arts leading to the B.A. degree to students who have completed an appropriate two-year program at a community college.

These programs in secondary school certification and in liberal arts are additions to those which have been offered at New Paltz for many years and which include programs for elementary school teachers (including a specialization in early childhood teaching); junior high school teachers in English, mathematics, science, and social studies; and art teachers for both the elementary and secondary schools.

President Haggerty explained that the new secondary school certification program at New Paltz will include the fifth year of graduate study required by the Board of Regents for the permanent certificate. Graduates of four-year programs who hold the provisional certificate may enter the fifth year at New Paltz to qualify for the permanent certificate and the Master's degree. This graduate program will be an addition to graduate study already being offered at the College.

Of special importance in the preparation of high school teachers, Dr. Haggerty said, will be the emphasis on world understanding and international affairs in which the New Paltz curriculum has pioneered during the past decade. Besides a program of elective courses covering the non-western world, the General Education program at New Paltz requires all students to take course work in Asia, Africa, and the Near East, as well as the usual studies in Western Civilization and American History.

The new programs at New Paltz are expected to accelerate the already rapid rate of increase in the College enrollment. Present estimates forecast an enrollment of about 1,800 in September of this year, in comparison with 1,600 last year, and a total of 3,500 by 1970 or before, according to the President. A corresponding increase in extension and summer session enrollment, now approximately 2,500, is also expected.

To take care of the expanding College and the rapidly growing student body, the building program at the College is also being accelerated. Dr. Haggerty pointed out that, in addition to dormitories recently completed and occupied, a new dining hall will be ready in September and a new dormitory later in the fall. Construction has just been started on still another dormitory which should be completed by September, 1962. A Fine Arts Building has been started and construction of a health and physical education building is about to begin. A science building, an infirmary, and several other buildings are in the planning stage.

With the expansion in scope and size of the program and the attendant building program, President Haggerty said, the College at New Paltz is rapidly becoming a multi-purpose institution of higher education.

SAUGERTIES — Miss Beverly Ann Mooers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mooers of 12 Peach Lane, Saugerties, was married to Robert Erling Hanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erling Hanson of Saxton on Sunday, July 9 at 2 p. m. at the Saugerties Methodist Church. The Rev. Joseph Rainer Jr., officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an off-white street length silk brocade gown. Her veil was held by a silk organza rose headpiece. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Greg Fowler of Saugerties was her only attendant. She wore a dress of yellow organza with matching hat and carried white roses.

Mrs. Mooers was attired in a beige linen knit dress with hat to match and wore a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue linen sheath dress and white lace hat and also had a white rose corsage.

Greg Fowler was Mr. Hanson's best man. A reception was given for the immediate families at Sky Top Restaurant.

For her wedding trip through Maine and the New England States, the bride wore a blue polished cotton dress with a white organza hat. The couple will reside on Virginia Avenue, Saugerties.

New Paltz Reports Largest Summer Session Enrollment

Final enrollment figures for the 1961 Summer Session which began last week at the State University College of Education, New Paltz, show a total of 1,458 students, according to Dr. Richard F. Klix, director of the Summer Session.

This figure represents an increase of 125 students, compared with the 1,333 who attended last year's session, and again sets a new attendance record for the New Paltz Summer Program.

Included in the total figure are 310 students registered in a program at the State University Agriculture and Technical Institute at Farmingdale which is conducted each summer by the College of Education at New Paltz.

Students attending classes on the New Paltz Campus total 1,148, the largest number of students on the campus during any summer in the history of the College, Dr. Klix reported. Last summer's campus enrollment totaled 1,028 students.

Dr. Klix pointed out that the largest increases are among the regular undergraduate students, from 293 last year to 322 this year, and the unclassified undergraduates who represent students from other colleges taking classes at New Paltz during the summer. This group has increased from 83 last summer to 142 presently enrolled.

Courses which still have a few vacancies include a class on the Use of Creative Materials with Young Children which will begin July 24 and continue to August 11 and several two-week courses scheduled from August 14 to 25. These include workshops on the Diagnosis and Remediation of Reading Difficulties, the Teaching of Science in the Elementary School, the Social History of New York, and Driver Education. A course, "Field Studies in Conservation," also will be held from August 14 to 24 at the New Paltz College Camp in the heart of the Catskill Mountains.

Additional information about these late summer courses may be obtained from the director of Summer Session.

A special Art Workshop for high school seniors will also be held on the campus from August 12 to 25, and the Eleventh Annual Administrator's Institute, an all-day session on School Law, will be conducted on the Campus August 3.

This week some 40 senior citizens, mostly retired teachers, arrived at the college for a two-week program entitled "Avocational Fortnight." The group is participating in many of the activities of the regular students

A TOO GENEROUS HELPING
Q: When invited to a friend's house for dinner and the host heaps your plate with a casserole dish which looks so unappetizing you fear it will make you ill, are you compelled out of sheer courtesy to eat it? This has happened to me on two occasions and I have consumed it much to my sorrow.

A: When you see the host heaping your plate exclaim quickly: "Please, if that's for me, not nearly so much. I have a birdlike appetite and couldn't eat half of that!" If he then gives you too much you are at liberty to eat as little of it as you wish.

Gloves In A Receiving Line
Q: It is proper for a hostess and others who are in the receiving line to wear gloves at a reception taking place at home? There is a disagreement among those concerned, but all are eager to do the correct thing. It seems to the majority of us that it is proper for gloves to be worn only if the reception is held in a public place. Will you please give us your opinion?

A: The women in a receiving line should wear gloves even when the reception is at home.

His Wife Was Not Invited
Q: One of the young women in my office is going to be married soon and I have been invited to the wedding. My wife was not included in the invitation. I am going to the wedding, but would like to send her a wedding present because of the many favors she has done for me. I would like to know if my wife's name should be included on the card enclosed with the wedding present. The bride-to-be knows I am married.

A: If your wife is a complete stranger to the bride-to-be, you would not include her name on the card you send with your present. The Emily Post Institute cannot answer personal mail, but all questions of general interest are answered in this column.

We The Women

Home, Outside Activities Must Be Kept in Balance

Anybody else "lost" a teenager to organized activities and social life besides the mother who writes:

"As the mother of three sons I have found that school activities and other outside interests take a boy out of the home so much he doesn't know what family living is like.

"Here's the schedule for one of our boys, who is in high school now: During the season when he plays football and is on the wrestling team he arrives home between seven and eight, Monday through Friday. Saturday there is usually a game and, if not, more practice.

"Sunday he goes to Sunday school, church, choir practice in the afternoon and a church youth meeting at night.

"Since he leaves for school at 7:40 each morning you can understand that we see very little of him. I am not exaggerating when I say that he is at home only long enough to shower, change clothes and eat the meal I have kept hot for him on the back of the stove. Then he is off for some activity. And after that it is bed time.

"My other two boys followed the same kind of hectic schedule.

That is why I can't understand your saying in a recent column that parents tend to 'take over' too many of the activities and organizations to which their children belong.

"How else are we ever going to see our children if we don't find excuses to be with them outside the home? After all, they are rarely IN it."

Most of the outside activities teenagers are urged to join are good. Certainly all those mentioned in the above letter are worthwhile. But teenagers—as well as adults—often overdo the outside activity routine. No matter how worthwhile they are a teenager can belong to too many teams, clubs, and organizations.

Home is still important—or should be because it is in the home, not outside it, that parents have the best chance to guide and influence their children.

If you feel you have lost a teenager to outside activities—it's time to see that he adjusts his busy schedule to make some room for family living.

Homemakers need understanding, too. See Ruth Millett's booklet, "Happier Wives (hints for husbands)." Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, care of P. O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y.

O'Neill Play at Hyde Park

If the Eugene O'Neill play, "Diff'rent" ever makes Broadway and is a success, all laurels would rightfully belong to the press agents. While the Hyde Park Playhouse cast and director gave their all to the production—a good set, excellent talent, despite a few flubs—the play doesn't offer enough to be interesting. The rather mundane plot left me with a feeling I had seen something similar on the late, late show.

In my opinion, this just wasn't O'Neill. Before it makes Broadway it would certainly have to pass through the hands of some very competent writers—if that is possible with an O'Neill work.

I was particularly impressed with Don Janek's acting. A very fluid performer, his brief role was handled with professional style. Janek is expected to join the Institute of Advanced Studies in Theatrical Arts. His TV credits include performances for Kraft, Robert Montgomery, United States Steel, Philco and other programs. I fully expect Janek to climb to the top of the ladder.

Equally fine in her role of a New England woman, who turns down love and marriage because her fiancé falls short of sainthood, was Sada Thompson. A member of the American Shakespeare Festival Theatre in Stratford, Conn., she is a winner of the Vernon Rice Award and made her Broadway debut in Marc Blitzstein's musical "Juno" with Shirley Booth.

Wayne Maxwell as the worthless troublemaker gave a stiff performance. Maxwell, who was kept busy last season at Hyde Park, acting and directing, has appeared with such stars as Gertrude Berg, Sam Levine, Pat O'Brien, Eddie Bracken and last summer's premiere of Gore Vidal's "On the March to the Sea." He is usually good.

Other capable actors in the cast were Eileen Letchworth, Joseph Hamer, Nora Dunfee, David Clarke and Charles Pursell.

In last night's audience was the well-known Broadway and television star, Cyril Richard and playwright Gore Vidal. The latter is reported to be one of the backers for the Hyde Park venture.

The talented M. David Samples is back this season as executive director and Harry C. LaTiere as co-producer.

Paul Shyre, one of New York's busiest and most versatile authors, producers, actors, and directors, was director of this vehicle.

Others on the production staff include Howard Austen, associate producer; Joseph Hamer, associate director; Jack Blackman, designer; Barbara Miller, assistant to the designer; Albert L. Gibson, stage manager; Joseph Baettti, technical director; Lisa Gibson, box office; Marvin Rambo Jr., properties; Susan Black-

Port Ewen Group Slates Top Corps Here for Pageant

The Criteria of Port Ewen are bringing to Kingston five of the top drum and bugle corps in the East to compete for cash awards and trophies in the seventh annual Pageant of Champions Saturday 8 p. m. at Dietz Stadium.

The rain date for the competition will be Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In addition, the Criteria, the newly consolidated corps, consisting of the merged Colonial Cavaliers of Port Ewen and Newburgh Ambassadors will present an exhibition during the judging. This will be the first opportunity for Kingston area residents to view the new drills and new music of the corps.

More than 300 musicians will participate and the presence of each corp and its followers will be a distinct boost to local business, a spokesman for the Port Ewen corps said today.

The pageant will be a brilliant display of colors, music and marching-maneuvering drum and bugle corps, an unusual form of entertainment for both young and old, he said.

Tickets are available at Potter Bros., 294 Fair Street; Otto's, 650 Broadway; Maines Sport Shop, 351 Broadway, and at the gate Saturday night.

Smedes Pitches

Bob Nadler Legion Club Wallops New Paltz, 14-1

Versatile Vince Smedes pitched a brilliant two-hitter and struck out 11 in his first pitching assignment since the Babe Ruth League as the Bob Nadler Legion Juniors walloped New Paltz, 14-1, last night at the Stadium.

The victory gives the locals a clean sweep of Highland and New Paltz teams in the Ulster County playoffs and sends them into the district tourney. The club is listed to meet Colonie in an exhibition game tonight at 8:45 at the Stadium.

Smedes had a no-hitter until one out in the seventh when Scott Yeager punched a two strike pitch up the middle. Bob Martyn followed with a safety but Smedes then bore down and fanned Tom Vett and John Keator to close the proceedings.

New Paltz had scored in the first frame on a pair of errors and the game was a 1-1 squeaker until the winners unloaded against Bill Lohman in the fourth. They concluded the assault against reliever Bill Longfield.

Catcher Richie Sickler poked three straight singles for the winners while Mike Ferraro had a triple and single. Ron Secreto stroked a triple and single and George Tomson walloped a three base hit. Paul Natale had two safeties.

Defeat Dutchess All-Stars, 12-8; To Play Tonight

Kingston Nationals entered the finals of the District 9 Babe Ruth League tournament last night at Caskill with a 12-8 victory over the Dutchess County All-Stars. The local lads are slated to meet Hudson in the finals at 5:30 this evening at the Catskill diamond.

Manager George Smith's club broke a 4-4 tie with a run in the second frame and it was strictly a mismatch from that point on. Another marker was added in the third and six more in the fourth. The losers made it closer with some scoring in the late innings.

John Tremper was the hitting star for Kingston with a double and two singles. Frank Lovejoy doubled for the Dutchess nine.

Pennant Races Set To Resume

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major league pennant races interrupted by a wild wind in San Francisco, pick up again today with the All-Star game heroes back in the pack in the National League running and the All-Star game goats on the threshold of first place in the American.

The New York Yankees, whose sluggers, Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, contributed just one single between them in seven trips as the NL beat the AL 5-3 in 10 innings at San Francisco Tuesday in the windup, All-Star game, play at Chicago tonight and could regain the lead from idle, first-place Detroit.

New York slipped one percentage point behind the Tigers Sunday before the majors started the three-day All-Star game break.

In the National, the Cincinnati Reds take a five-game bulge into the opener of a four-game series with the seventh-place Chicago Cubs at Cincinnati. The second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, with pitcher Don Drysdale sidelined by suspension and catcher Norm Sherry sidelined by injury, start a three-game set at home against last-place Philadelphia.

Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh drove in the winning run in the All-Star game and Willie Mays of San Francisco, who batted in the tying run and scored the clincher, go back to belting against each other as the third-place Pirates play the Giants this afternoon at Candlestick Park, San Francisco's Cave of the Winds.

The other NL game sends Milwaukee to St. Louis tonight. In the American, it's Baltimore at Boston, Minnesota at Cleveland and Kansas City at Washington.

The Yankees, 3-2 over the White Sox this season, send Bill Stafford (7-4) against Chicago and Early Wynn (7-1), the right-handed veteran who will be shooting for his 29th career victory and sixth in a row. New York figures to have first baseman Bill Skowron back and doesn't expect to be without Maxie, who injured his wrist while batting in the All-Star game. Skowron injured his back once again in pregame practice on Sunday.

Lasher Two-Hits Alpine, 5-0; Anchorage, Nadler's Get Wins

Bullet Bob Lasher hurled a sparkling two-hitter as Subway blanked second place Alpine Tavern of Highland 5-0, in a City Softball league game last night.

Meanwhile, veteran Mike Boyle and his Anchorage teammates widened their first place margin with a 5-2 win over Chez Emile. It was the 10th straight victory and the 14th in league play for the leaders. They have lost twice.

In another circuit contest, Nadler's shutout Armstrong's Grill, 9-0, as W. C. Lindsay hurled a four-hitter.

Singles by Augie Passante and Joe Mertes were the only safeties off Lasher. He had good support from his teammates as Jim Dodd slammed a home run and single and Paul Giannuzzi had three straight safeties.

Boyle scattered seven hits and aided his cause with a home run. The winners scored in four different innings. Primo and Coisson slammed triples.

Jim Ferraro had a perfect evening at the dish with four straight singles to spark a 14-hit attack for Nadler's. Five runs in the third frame broke open a tight contest and tagged Bill Costello with the loss.

Grays Gaining Ground On Springfield Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

How's this for a fast pace?

The Williamsport Grays, now in second-place in the Eastern League only two games behind Springfield, have won 15 of their last 19 games and currently are on a four-game winning streak. Their latest victory, Wednesday night, was a humdinger over the Reading Indians. Howie Pierson belted a two-out, three-run homer in the ninth to pull the game out of the fire, 6-5.

While the Grays have been red-hot, Springfield has been ice cold. The Giants dropped their third in a row to Lancaster, 10-9. During their current home stand, the Giants won only three of nine games.

In the only other action, Johnstown edged Binghamton 5-4, dropping the third-place Trips two full games behind Williamsport.

WINNER OF KIWANIS FISHING DERBY — William Wells holds up his catch of 20 fish which won the recent Kiwanis Club fishing derby sponsored by the Boys Committee of the organization. Checking them is the committee chairman, Carroll Lynch. Forty boys took part in the event at the YMCA camp at Shokan on the Bostock Mountain Road, the former W. S. VanderBent property. Fishing in the big lake fed by three brooks, the youngsters, 10 to 15 years of age, used worms. The Wells prize-winning string was made up of perch, crappies, catfish and one pickerel. Seven Kiwanians enjoyed the day with the boys.

Woodstock Open Scheduled on New Date, Monday, July 17

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

An interesting, almost incredible, statistic crops up in conjunction with the annual Hall of Fame exhibition between the Los Angeles Dodgers and Baltimore Orioles at Doubleday Field in Cooperstown on Monday, July 24.

Paul Richards, manager of the Orioles, is holder of a distinctive mark. Although the World Series competition embraces a grand total of 340 games, only one American League player has driven in three runs with a two-base hit. Richards is that hero.

In the seventh and deciding game of the 1945 series between the Chicago Cubs, Richards, then catcher for the American Leaguers, approached the plate with the bases full in the first inning. Paul Derringer was the pitcher, the Tigers having routed Hank Borowy, the ex-Yankee who started for the Cubs.

Richards, not exactly registered as a dangerous batter, or a slugger, rifled a Derringer curve in the fair space pocket of the left field line. Roger Cramer, Roy Cullenbine and Jimmy Outlaw raced from their respective bases to home plate while "Oom Paul," the batter, stopped at second base with a base clearing double.

You ask, perhaps, didn't Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmy Foxx, Hank Greenberg, Stan Musial, Joe Di Maggio, or other American League immortals ever hit a base clearing double in World Series competition? The answer, strange as it seems is no.

Cracks 807 Series

The 807 series rolled recently by Bill Leete is a new all-time Poughkeepsie city record, but the grand daddy of all mid-Hudson triples is the 818 posted by Kingston's Johnny Ferraro shortly after the war. Leete pieced together his phenomenal blast with games of 256, 275 and 276, eclipsing a 798 rolled by Jerry Pisanelli back in 1940. Leete was a 195 average performer at the end of the 1960-61 winter season. . . . George Hughes, the 1961 Herdengen Memorial champion, will make another bid for the New York State Amateur, July 19-23, at Syracuse. The Sweet Swinger qualified with a 76 at Dutchess where seven-time state champion, Ray Billows, defeated James M. Peeler on the first extra hole of a sudden death playoff for medalist honors. Gene Sarazen, the Squire of Germantown, who is due in Woodstock after Labor Day, is the subject of an interesting article in this month's issue of Elks Magazine. . . . Almost forgotten in the shuffle: Pro Scotty Robertson's hole-in-one on the 11th hole at Wiltwyck, with a 7-iron, the second of his career.

Remarkable Man Is Stan:

American League sluggers headed by Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig dominate baseball's 14 recognized categories, but Stan (The Man) Musial is revealed as a pretty remarkable batsman in his own right. His name appears among the 10 all-time greats in 13 departments. At the end of the 1960 season he was seventh in total games (2644), Cobb led with 3033; 6th in at bats (9830), Cobb (11,429); fifth in hits (3294), Cobb had 4191; 3rd in doubles (675), Tris Speaker leads with 793; 6th in home runs (429), Ruth had 714; 3rd in total bases (5366), Cobb had 5863; extra base hits (1274), second to Ruth's 1356; extra bases (2302), 4th behind Ruth (2920), Gehrig and Foxx; runs batted in 8th (1741), Ruth led with 2239; bases on balls (1448), 7th, Ruth had 2056; slugging (.569), eighth on list led by Babe Ruth's .690. Excepting Musial, the only other active player on the slugging roster among the first ten is Mickey Mantle of the Yankees with .568. The all-time slugging leaders in order: Ruth (.690); Ted Williams (.634); Lou Gehrig (.632); Jimmy Foxx (.609); Hank Greenberg (.605); Joe Di Maggio (.579); Rogers Hornsby (.577); Musial (.569); Mantle (.568); Johnny Mize (.563).

The foregoing statistics prove that Musial belongs among the Olympians. Who will be next . . . Mays or Mantle?

Joe Primo Hits 481

Joe Primo shot 158, 138, 185 for 481 sticks in the Business Girls League. Results: Yonta's Trucking 2, Tommie's Tavern 1; Kay's Dress 2, Colonial Knitwear 1; J and G Dry Wall 2, Trojan Vending 1; Wimpy's 2, DeLuca Cleaners 1.

To Be Buried Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidney Cole, the 31-year-old jockey who was killed Tuesday at Aqueduct Race Track when thrown by Laurel Mae, a 2-year-old filly, during a public workout, will be buried today.

Van Aken Plans To Defend Title He Won in 1960

The tradition-steeped Woodstock Open moves into a new date, but will have all the old familiar faces on hand Monday, July 17, at Woodstock Country Club.

Almost since its inception, the Woodstock Open has been played on the third Friday in August, but was moved into a Monday date this year to conform with the weekly schedule of the Northeastern PGA.

Defending champion Bill Van Aken is expected to head the usual star-studded field, as the Northeastern pros seek to reclaim the laurels dominated by Hudson valley amateurs in the 1960 event.

Van Aken, Bill Waterous, who was to go on to dethrone Van Aken in the Woodstock CC finals, and Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, tied for first place with 27-hole scores of 101, 4-under-par for the distance. In a dramatic sudden death playoff, Waterous was eliminated on the first extra hole and Van Aken took Billows out with a birdie on the second hole.

Heading the professional division will be Armand Farina, the doughty Schenectady professional who has won the event a half dozen times. Farina holds the tournament record of 98. He will be accompanied by his two brothers, Jim Farina of Saratoga Spa and Guy Farina of Caroga Lake.

Area pros Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill, the 1954 winner; Scotty Robertson of Wiltwyck, Fred Lux of Dutchess Golf and Country Club and Jack Mackey of IBM Poughkeepsie have forwarded entries.

Bob Mix Expected
Bob Mix of the Albany Country Club, current Northeastern champion, will be a formidable contender, along with Alex Sinclair of Mohawk. ### Jay, Wilhelm Lead Majors in ERA

NEW YORK (AP)—Joy Jay, largely responsible for Cincinnati's rise to the top of the National League, is the circuit's earned run leader at the season's halfway mark.

The 25-year-old right-hander, obtained from Milwaukee last winter, has allowed only 39 earned runs in 132 innings for a 2.66 average, figures compiled by The Associated Press showed today.

Hoyle Wilhelm, Baltimore's relief specialist, striving for his third ERA title, boasts the lowest mark in the American League—2.07. The veteran knuckleballer has worked 78 innings while giving up 7 earned runs. The leaders are based on 75 or more innings.

Jay has become one of the Red Sox' mound aces with a 12-4 won-lost record. The 6-4, 225-pounder has completed 7 of his 17 starts with 2 shutouts.

Wilhelm has won 6 games and lost 4. The 37-year-old right-hander led the National League in ERA with 2.43 in 1952 while pitching for the Giants. As a member of the Orioles in 1959, Wilhelm topped the AL with a 2.19 average.

Mrs. A. D. (Kathleen) Elwyn has won the 1961 women's President's Cup competition at Woodstock Country Club with a sparkling 8-under-par 132 net for the 36-hole tournament.

Mrs. Elwyn, who is playing some of the finest golf of her career, finished two strokes ahead of the runnerup, Mrs. Joseph Forno. Mrs. Elwyn fired an 88 in the second round to go with an opening 90 for 178 gross and she had combined handicap of 46. Mrs. Forno carded rounds of 93-95 for 188 gross and had 54 handicap for 134.

Third place went to the fast improving Mrs. Philip S. (Willy) Salet with a net 135. She had rounds of 110-101 for 211 with 76 handicap.

Whitey Ford to Get Extra Day's Rest

CHICAGO (AP)—Whitey Ford, who won 16 games in the first half of the season by working every fourth day, is going to get an added day of rest between starts of the New York Yankees the rest of the year.

Manager Ralph Houk announced the change today as the Yankees arrived for the opener of a 12-game road trip tonight against the Chicago White Sox.

"The All-Star appearance threw Whitey's schedule out of kilter," said Houk, "but I already had decided he should get longer rests now that the weather is getting hotter and there are more arms available."

Ford, at 32, is enjoying his finest season with a 16-2 record that tops the majors, isn't unhappy about the change, although it could keep him from a possible 30-victory season.

young girls who regularly attend Little League games, President Miller says that the dashes will probably have to be run in heats in order to accommodate the heavy entry that is expected. The refreshment stand will be open, with hot dogs and hamburgers and cold drinks available.

Teamwork Clicks
In discussing the wonderful progress and enthusiasm that Little League baseball has made this year, Miller said:

"This year has proved that Little League baseball is not a one man job, but rather its success is directly proportional to the number of good adults that you are able to draw into a program. In our particular case, we have so many wonderful men and women doing so much good work that they are too numerous to mention."

"We have received unsolicited funds in the way of contributions to make Little League baseball possible," Miller added, "but even with the generous offerings to date, we find that we are considerably shy of the amount of money needed to do the job. Therefore, a direct mail appeal is being made to members of the community to try to raise the necessary funds."

The funds that have been received to date are very much appreciated and president Miller advises that all contributions will be personally acknowledged.

Pender Had Fight Stopped Because He Couldn't Win

LONDON (AP) — Dethroned middleweight champion Paul Pender said today he failed to answer the bell for 10th round against Terry Downes "because I didn't have a chance."

In an interview with Boston Herald sports writer Bud Collins who made the trip here, the Brookline, Mass., boxer talked about his loss of his share of the 160-pound crown to Downes on Tuesday.

"Sure, I fought Gene Fullmer and other guys to the death when I was hurt," Pender said. "I always will if I think I have a chance. But there was no way I could beat Downes. My punches weren't doing anything. I had nothing."

"I caught cold Sunday and it took everything out of me. From the minute we started I knew I didn't have it."

Pender, who lost the portion of the middleweight crown recognized in New York, Massachusetts and Europe, retired with a cut over his left eye at the end of the ninth round in the Wembley Indoor Stadium bout.

Lopez May Retire After This Year

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Al Lopez, veteran baseball player and manager who has spent 36 of his 52 years in the game, said Wednesday he may retire at the end of this season.

However, in an interview with Ralph Warner, Tampa Tribune sports columnist, Lopez said he didn't know what it would be like to "be out of the game."

When asked directly if he planned on retiring, he answered: "Could be."

Lopez, pilot of the Chicago White Sox, has been a manager 13 years.

The Tampa native started playing professional baseball as a 16-year-old catcher in the Florida State League. He spent 18 years as a major leaguer before becoming a manager.

In Chicago, the Sun-Times said it had contacted Lopez in Florida and quoted the White Sox manager as saying: "I don't know where he (Warner) got it."

Lopez said he told Warner he's not worrying about next year because he has a contract which runs through 1961 and "I'll finish the season before making any decisions."

Saratoga Slates Pacing Series

SARATOGA SPRINGS—Shadydale Monitor, Billy Current's speedy three-year-old pacer, goes after a clean sweep in the 24 class pacing series, tonight at Saratoga Raceway. The invader from Chicago, which has easily handled all comers in the six-leg series, has the added advantage of the one post in tonight's top division of the Greenville.

The diminutive colt has developed into one of the most popular and most consistent pacers to race over the Spa oval in many a year. In his string of six straight, which started with a win at Roosevelt, Shadydale Monitor has shown the way home to its competitors in just about every imaginable method, from the front, from far off the pace, and from a contending position.

In the second division of the Greenville, Lew Kalil moves his three-year-old filly Cavalcade Susie up to the early closer, following a recent win in an overnight event.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

PARIS (AP)—The door of the $36,000 Rolls Royce limousine opened and out stepped a bum.

His tattered trousers were held up with rope. His hair was matted and a three-day stubble was on his face. But he strode into the smart cafe like a jaunty though porcine Maurice Chevalier.

Of course, he was a special kind of bum. This was Jackie Gleason, the elephantine elf of American television and now starring in "Gigot," a film. He plays a mute Montmartre cast-off.

Gleason plopped his bulk down in a chair against the wall and ordered champagne.

"That's all—champagne," he said to the puzzled waitress. "I'm a bum. I can't afford to eat."

Gleason sipped his lunch and discussed his film career.

"I just did a picture in New York called 'The Hustler,'" he said. "People keep calling me and saying I'm going to get an award for it. Every time I ask them what the award is for, the line goes dead. I still don't know the answer."

He is making "Gigot" in Paris at considerable sacrifice—absence from his Manhattan haunts for five months. It has been a six-day weekly grind, fighting the worst French spring in years.

The French cooking? "I only eat when I'm hungry," he declared. "As you can see, I am often hungry."

This is not Gleason's first fling at movies. He recalled remarking about his performance in "Navy Blues": "I looked like somebody who was watching the picture."

'Faust' Translation

NEW YORK (AP)—Randall Jarrell, whose "The Women at the Washington Zoo" won the poetry prize in the 1961 National Book Awards, is translating Goethe's "Faust." Part One will be published within the next two years by Atheneum.

Find Methods Are Various to Figure School State Aid

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Diefendorf Commission, seeking a simplified state-aid formula, said it found wide variations in the state's 772 major school districts.

The committee is seeking to improve school financing. Charles H. Diefendorf, Buffalo banker who heads the committee, said it was making satisfactory progress and would report to the 1962 Legislature.

Diefendorf said the committee found variations in average daily attendance from fewer than 100 to 896,000.

The staff per 1,000 pupils ranged from 38 to 117, he said, and net current spending per pupil, based on daily attendance, from $32 to $150.

Full value of real property per resident varied from less than $5,000 to more than $200,000 and the real-estate tax per $1,000 of full value from less than $5 to $23.88.

Diefendorf said the committee was studying the construction costs of 200 school buildings to try and determine the reasons for differences in cost.

The committee met in Albany Wednesday.

School Official In Chicago 3rd Highest in Pay

CHICAGO (AP)—Benjamin C. Willis, superintendent of Chicago public schools since 1953, today ranks as the nation's third highest paid public official.

The 59-year-old superintendent Wednesday was voted a new four-year contract at a salary of $48,500 a year by the Board of Education.

His new salary, a raise of $6,000 annually, places Willis behind President Kennedy who draws a $100,000 annual salary and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York who gets $50,000. Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois is paid $30,000 a year and Mayor Richard J. Daley receives a salary of $35,000 a year.

Willis, who began his teaching career in Maryland, was superintendent of schools in Yonkers, and Buffalo, N.Y., before coming to Chicago.

Mother and Young Son Recovering, Hurt in Collision

A Brooklyn woman and her 15-month-old son who were injured in a car-truck collision Tuesday afternoon which took the life of Mrs. Mary Fitzsimons, 58, of Accord, were reported "getting along nicely" today at Veterans Memorial Hospital, Elenville.
Mrs. Janet Schmalik, 39, and her son, Michael, were admitted following the collision between a car-operated by Mrs. Fitzsimons and a tractor-trailer on Route 209, in the hamlet of Accord. They were passengers in the car operated by Mrs. Fitzsimons.
The tractor-trailer, traveling north on a left curve, smashed into the left side of the 1956 sedan which was proceeding in a westerly direction on Main Street. The sedan reportedly crossed into Route 209 in the path of the tractor-trailer whose driver swerved to avoid the collision, struck the sedan broadside and plunged off the westerly side of the highway.

Vandermark Still Critical, Injured In Cycle Mishap

A young Accord man who was severely injured Tuesday evening when his motorcycle skidded on a curve on the Mettacahtons road, Town of Rochester, and struck an automobile, was reported "still critical" at the Veterans Memorial Hospital today but "holding his own."
Richard Vandermark, 20, was injured shortly before 9 p. m. when his 1959 All-State cycle skidded while rounding a curve and crashed into a 1960 sedan operated by Fritz Apel, 60, of Kerhonkson. Apel was proceeding in the opposite direction.
Apel reportedly saw Vandermark skidding and brought his vehicle to a stop. The cycle smashed into the front of the car, however.
Vandermark suffered internal injuries, a laceration of the left arm and contusions of the head.

Cook a package of thin noodles until almost soft, drain and fry in deep hot fat. Serve with piping hot chicken and vegetable broth.

Community Drive Helps Industry Back to Benton

BENTON, Ky. (AP) — Hard work and folks like the widow of $6 she carried brought success to Benton's 24-hour fund-raising campaign to reacquire an industry.

The community raised $7,500 to return a subsidiary of the Ashby Metal Co. from St. Louis, where it had moved after closing its plant here 18 months earlier.

Ashby officials asked help in meeting moving expenses and the community had to raise the money by 10 a. m. Wednesday. The drive went over the top at 10:52 a. m.

Earl St. Marie, chairman of the Marshall County Industrial Foundation, said the contributions went from $1 to $500, including the widow's $5. She was a former employee of the lawn furniture plant.

St. Marie said practically all the plant's former employees still living here contributed to the drive.

"We could never have done it without the radio station and the hard work of so many people. Over 250 people and groups chipped in, including the Kiwanis, Lions and Rotary."

An average of 300 people in this far western Kentucky town of 3,000 worked at the plant previously. It will reopen about Oct. 1, St. Marie said. It's payroll put $11,000 weekly into the city's economy in the past.

Polio Cases Are Down for Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service reports "a remarkably low level" of polio cases in the United States so far this year. But it cautions against overoptimism.

There were 237 polio cases in the first half of the year. There were about twice as many in the first half of 1960—469—and more than four times as many in the first half of 1959—1,026.

This is the time of year a distinct increase in cases is expected. Eighteen new cases—eight of them paralytic—were reported from 11 states for the week ended July 1.

August Draft Is Set for 8,000; Seven-Month Peak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army plans to draft 8,000 men next month to help bring it up to an authorized strength of 870,000.

The August draft call, announced Wednesday by the Defense Department, is the highest since last December, when it also was 8,000. Army manpower at the beginning of June was about 856,000.

KINGSTON'S METER MAID — The city's first Meter Maid serving on the Kingston Police Department, Mrs. Doris Rougier, a former school crossing guard, stands between Mayor Edwin F. Radel (left) and Police Chief Robert F. Murphy ready to start her daily tour of duty checking overtime parkers. She uses the Cushman truckster shown above. In her first two days as a special policeman she ticketed 200 illegal parkers. Mrs. Rougier went on duty last Saturday. Her hours are from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. six days a week.

Neighbors Ran to Hide Their Eyes

Foster Mother Tells How Nassau Social Workers Took 2 Children

NORTH MASSAPEQUA, N.Y. (AP) — Here is how Mrs. Samuel Costa describes the way Nassau County social workers removed her two foster children from her home:

"Jeffrey ran to the dog, Spotty, who was tied up in the yard. 'Sic her, sic her,' he said. 'You're not taking me away from my mother.' He was crying. The boy looked and saw the cops, and he ran around the house.

Still Hears Screams
"I caught him to me. I said, 'Wait until he gets calmer at least. I'll calm him down. Don't take them like beasts.' But Miss Smith (a social worker) grabbed the boy and threw him into the car. I can still hear the screams.

"Then Debbie ran to a policeman and put her arms around his neck. But they took her, too. My little girl tried to call to me. I almost died."

A neighbor said of the scene: "Women had to run into their houses and hide their eyes. They couldn't watch."

One of the two patrolmen who accompanied the social workers to the house said he had been "close to tears."

The taking of 8-year-old Jeffrey and 7-year-old Deborah from the Costa home where they have lived for six years has raised an uproar in this Nassau County community.

To Lodge Protest
State Assemblyman Edwin J. Fehrenbach said he plans to lodge an official protest today over the incident with County Executive A. Holly Patterson.

The County Welfare Department denied there was any violence when the children were taken. It said it decided to remove the children from the Costa home because the Costas planned to take a 2-month European vacation this year and leave Jeffrey and Deborah in the care of relatives.

Furthermore, said a department spokesman, a social worker had felt Jeffrey was quieter and more inhibited than Deborah, who tended to "overshadow the little boy." For that reason, said the spokesman, it was felt better for the children's development to separate them. The Welfare Department supervises the care of foster children.

Said Fehrenbach, a Nassau County Republican: "These reasons are ridiculous. If the department has no other reasons I think there needs to be a review of the department's procedures."

Tour to Highlight Finale

Rosendale Rally Days Set for July 19 to 23

An educational tour on which a visit to the Century Cement plant, quarries and kilns will mark the closing day of the "Rosendale Rally" which is being sponsored by the Rosendale Chamber of Commerce from Wednesday, July 19 to Sunday, July 23.

A card party at the Rosendale firehouse Wednesday, July 19, at 8 p. m. will be the opening event under sponsorship of the Rosendale Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary. The closing event Sunday, July 23, will be a chicken barbecue at Tillson American Legion hall. The fishing contest, one of the events of the three-day "Rally" will end at noon on Sunday at the Rosendale Hardware store.

Main events of the "Rosendale Rally" will be scheduled on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 20, 21 and 22.

There will be a full program each day marked by a parade on Thursday night following a roast beef dinner served by the Rosendale Reformed Church ladies. On Friday, Cottekill Fire Department will hold a carnival and there will be baseball and dancing. A swimming contest on Saturday, bowling contest, card party and continuance of the Cottekill carnival, as well as an antique show at Rosendale Grange hall will provide entertainment.

Tour on Saturday
The educational tour beginning at 2 p. m. on Saturday will be one of the outstanding events.

On this tour the Century Cement plant will be one of two principal Rosendale industries to be visited. The Knapp Brothers mushroom caverns will be the other.

Both the cement plant and mushroom caverns will provide an interesting subject for inspection. The tour, starting at Mulligan's Bus Depot, will give an opportunity to see one of Rosendale's oldest industries and one which many years ago made the village of Rosendale famous and very prosperous, natural cement.

History says the manufacture of cement began in the area in a small way when the first specimen was burned in a High Falls blacksmith shop, reduced to powder by pounding and then used. This date is fixed at approximately 1825. From this small beginning the Rosendale Cement industry grew until in 1875 the Rosendale census figures give the town 4,355 population, most of them engaged in cement industry or its distribution. Opening of the Delaware & Hudson Canal between Honesdale, Pa., and tidewater at Eddyville in 1828 was a boon to the area as the canal followed the Rondout Creek through Rosendale. Many were engaged in boating during the season the canal was open.

Shortly after 1825 Rosendale cement went into production with erection of huge kilns and shortly after many concerns were engaged in producing cement and big grinding mills powdered the cement. Mills were erected at many points and long tunnels were driven under the area to mine the native rock from which cement was manufactured.

One of the cement industries at Lawrenceville was operated by Andrew J. Snyder. Rock was quarried and burned in two kilns but the concern did not operate its own grinding mill. Today the only cement business now operating in the Rosendale area is Century Cement Corporation, owned and operated by the grandson of the original owner, Andrew J. Snyder. Century Cement Corporation now oper-

Hold West Hurley Man for Burglary Of Seahorse Inn

John George Schuman, 22 of West Hurley, arrested Wednesday for third degree burglary in connection with a break-in at the Seahorse Restaurant, Woodstock early Tuesday, was arraigned before Woodstock Town Justice of the Peace Rudolf C. Baumgarten, weived examination and is being held in Ulster County Jail pending grand jury action.

Kingston state police reported that seven open bottles of liquor were stolen from the restaurant. In charge of the investigation were Kingston BCI Investigators Edward Shannon and Charles Teelon, Trooper H. S. Rhodes, and Town Constables Clarence Snyder and Paul Senecal.

Investigation of a stolen car led to the arrest of Schuman, according to Sgt. A. F. Matuljak of Lake Katrine station.

A 25-year-old Woodstock man, arrested for second degree grand larceny for the theft of a car on Tuesday, gave a lift to a hitchhiker who was later identified by state police as Schuman.

William Harry Smith was arraigned and committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $100 bail for examination Saturday. He was charged with the theft of a car owned by Murray Kellogg, a roommate, troopers said. Constables Snyder and Senecal also assisted in the investigation with Kingston state police.

Troopers said Smith picked up Schuman, who was hitchhiking on Route 375.

Dawley's Rodeo Opens Friday at OnteoraSpeedway

Dawley's wild west rodeo opens a two-day stand at Onteora Speedway Park Friday, with a performance at 6 p. m. Two shows are scheduled on Saturday, July 15, at 2 p. m. and 6 p. m.

Rated as one of the greatest outdoor attractions in the country, the Dawley Rodeo will bring 60 head of stock and 30 wild west stars, along with top broncos, genuine wild Brahma steers and bucking horses, highly trained saddle horses and championship cowboys and cowgirls. It will be a bit of the old west transplanted right into Olive Bridge.
